Housing Subsidy Plan Is Defeated

Coalition Rejects Proposal, "Heart" of Truman's Program

VOTE ON FINAL PASSAGE OF BILL IS DEFERRED

Plan Would Have Authorized $600,000,000 of Subsidy Payments

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—A House coalition of Republicans and some Democrats today defeated a subsidy proposal which President Truman called "the heart" of his housing program.

Appeals by the president himself, the Democratic national chairman, Robert E. Hannegan, and the economic high command failed to hold enough Democrats in line.

The plan, which would have authorized $600,000,000 of subsidy payments to encourage greater production of building materials, was defeated on a roll call vote of 161 to 92. No record is made on such a vote. As the membership marched past the tellers to be counted, at least forty southern Democrats were noted in opposition, and not a single Republican was observed voting for the subsidy.

The House then quit until tomorrow without voting on final passage of what was left of the housing bill. Administration leaders, seeing defeat of the subsidy plan clearly threatened in advance, had sought an adjournment before the vote on this provision was taken. But their adjournment move was defeated on a non-record vote of 37 to 91.

Hannegan Gave Warning
Hannegan had warned that "the Democratic party will be held responsible." He wired each Democrat beforehand:

"Solid partisan Republican opposition to essential parts of this program, especially premiums (subsidy) payments, threatens to torpedo the measure. The Democratic party will be held responsible by the country for failure to solve the housing crisis, not the Republicans. We cannot let this happen."

Before the voting commenced, Mr. Truman called his congressional leaders to the White House and pleaded anew for a strong housing bill. He also asked for early congressional action on extending OPA another year and raising the nation's

Three Burn to Death In Fire at Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 4 (AP)—Three men were burned to death today in a fire that swept the three-story Bonhard Art Furniture Company building on downtown Euclid avenue.

The dead were identified as: Andrew Wendorfer, 50; Joseph Herkinder, 62; and Mathew Wozak, age unknown. All were employees of the furniture concern.

Wendorfer and Herkinder, employed in the cutting room, were carried unconscious to the street by firemen, and pronounced dead on arrival at St. Vincent Charity hospital.

A fourth man, Louis Levine, 57, was injured seriously when he jumped from a second-story window.

Persia Situation Must Be Watched, Commons Is Told

Brig. F. H. R. MacLean Poses Questions for Labor Government

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—A conservative member of Parliament said tonight that Great Britain "cannot take the risk of South Persia and the Persian gulf falling into the hands of any power hostile to this country."

The speaker, Brig. F. H. R. MacLean, asked whether the Labor government would "leave our Soviet Allies to carry—perhaps some people would say kidnap—the baby and make the whole of Persia a Soviet sphere of influence."

He asked if the government would "stand up for our own interests and take our full share in maintaining, in friendly co-operation with our allies, order and security in Persia?"

MacLean spoke after Prime Minister Attlee, opening a debate on British defense policy, told Commons that Britain hopes to see "a steady reduction of armaments" throughout the world, but declared that for at least a year the country would keep more than 1,000,000 men in the armed forces. Britain has an estimated 4,000,000 men under arms at present.

Attlee opened a two-day debate on the national defense policy, stating:

"I hope that as the year progresses x x x the system of collective security under the United Nations may become an actuality."

"The coming of atomic armament, British obligations to the United Nations, keeping order in India and maintaining occupation forces, all contribute to the difficulty of laying down a long term defense policy."

The British woman and three Canadian government employees had been charged with conspiracy and violation of Canada's Official Secret acts, it was announced.

They were arraigned today, and

U. S., Britain and France Ask Spaniards To Remove Franco

Negro Confesses To Dual Slaying; Charge Is Filed

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 4 (AP)—Joseph Luther Woolridge, chunky, 29-year-old negro handyman in a Bloomington cafe, was charged with first degree murder today in the death of Mrs. Phyllis Coleman, whose body, with that of Russell E. Koonz, was found in an abandoned stone mill last Friday.

The charge was filed by Coroner Ray Borland soon after Sheriff Albert H. Skirvin and state police had made public a confession which they said Woolridge had signed at state police headquarters in Indianapolis. Woolridge said in the confession he killed Koonz as the latter lunged at him.

The statement, as given out by the officers, contained complete details of the double slaying of Koonz, 43-year-old general manager of the Empire Stone Company, of Bloomington, and 32-year-old Mrs. Coleman, chestnut-haired of a wife employed in a local creamery.

Both were married and both were associated with the choir of the Clear Creek Christian church, where Koonz resigned as Sunday school superintendent recently.

Woolridge related that he stopped in the old mill while groundhog hunting last Friday afternoon and came upon Koonz and Mrs. Coleman in a compromising position.

Woolridge said that as he stood watching the couple, Koonz noticed him and told him to "scram," but he remained.

"I stood on the spot for a short time and the man asked me if I knew him," Woolridge's statement read. "I told him that I did. This man then said that I would never tell."

Woolridge said that as he stood in the doorway, the man lunged at him.

"I ducked and at the same time I picked up a window sash weight and swung at the man and hit the man on the back of the head as he went past me," the statement continued.

The negro's statement said the blow knocked Koonz out and that he left the man on the floor and tied up the woman. He said, the woman did not resist.

He returned to Koonz, he said, and found that he was dead.

"At this point I was scared and didn't know what to do," the statement went on. "I walked all around on the inside of the building and finally decided that since the man was dead I would have to also dispose of the woman because she was a witness to the fight."

The negro told of placing a rope around the woman's neck and choking her to death.

FBI agents at Indianapolis said Woolridge's record showed six arrests

New Effort Will Be Made To Avert Telephone Strike

Conciliation Director Calls Union, Company to Capital Meeting

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Another last-minute effort to head off a nationwide telephone tie-up was made late today when Edgar L. Warren, director of the United States Conciliation Service, summoned leaders of the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers, and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to a conference in Washington at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The company and union received telephone messages from Warren requesting the conference.

The summons, followed by a few hours' assertions by union leaders that the walkout, set for 6 a. m. Thursday, would begin as scheduled, after another meeting over wages ended early today without agreement.

Key Group in Federation
The Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers is the key group in the National Federation of Telephone Workers, (Indiana).

In Washington, Warren said the conference here would be a resumption of the New York negotiations but said various methods of averting the strike would be discussed if an agreement could not otherwise be reached.

These methods, he said, undoubtedly would include fact-finding and arbitration.

Warren said, if a settlement could be effected by the long lines federation, he believed there would be "a very good chance of getting the other situations cleared up."

If not agreement is reached and the parties do not accept fact finding or arbitration, Warren said, the government then would decide its next move.

Pullman Sale Is Attacked in Briefs

PHILADELPHIA, March 4 (AP)—The United States government and three other appellants today asked the United States Supreme Court to set aside the $75,000,000 sale of the nation's sleeping car business to a combine of forty-three railroads.

One brief attacking the sale was filed by Wendell Berge, special assistant to the United States attorney general. Others were on behalf of Otis and Company, Cleveland banking firm; Glenside Banking and Company, Chicago banking firm, and a group of three railroads, the Chesapeake and Ohio, Nickel Plate and Pere Marquette.

Sales of the Pullman Company, which operates sleeping cars on all the nation's railroads, would substitute a new monopoly for one which the federal courts ordered dissolved, the appellants charged. It would also "result in discrimination against the smaller railroads," the government argued.

After receiving the appeals, a special three-judge United States expediting court extended indefinitely an order issued last December permitting the Pullman Company to continue its present operations until the case is finally determined. Pullman, Inc., had been given fact finding March 31, 1946, to turn over the business to the railroad combine.

The wounded were listed as 229 Egyptians and two British soldiers.

In Cairo, official sources said, 600 persons were arrested by police patrols which kept large crowds from forming.

Prime Minister Ismail Sidki Pasha said in the communique that "police were obliged to fire" after rioters stoned Egyptian police and British troops.

Violent fighting in Egypt's chief port city broke out during the demonstrations for some fifteen Egyptians killed last week in anti-British rioting in Cairo.

The communique said the disorders started with "laborers and students, and police dispersed them at first peacefully and afterwards with clubs. The demonstrators then started stoning the police."

Later, the communique continued, a "huge demonstration took place at the Atlantic hotel," which is occupied by British naval officers, "and demonstrators attempted to pull down a British flag."

A rumor swept through the demonstrators that shots had been fired from a house "occupied by British troops in the two top floors," the communique said. The mob attacked the house and set it afire and the rioters then set fire to a gas station and some shops before they were dispersed by Egyptian police, it added.

"When the demonstrators arrived at the British military police station they threw torches at the station," the communique continued. "Police in the station fired at them. Several Egyptians were killed and three others saved by Egyptian police."

The communique said the day passed quietly throughout the

VOTE TODAY IN THE CITY PRIMARY

IT has probably crept up on most Cumberlanders unawares, owing to the fact that not a great deal of interest has been manifested in it, but today is biennial city primary election day and citizens are faced with the duty of going to the polls in their respective election precincts and casting their ballots for the runners in the city election to be held two weeks hence.

The last time a primary election was held in the city, there was much indifference on the part of the citizenry. It was understandable for several reasons. One was the fact that the people were grimly absorbed in the war effort, not merely through distraction of attention but also because so many of them had experienced a wholesale change of their scheduled time and effort by reason of the impact of the war program.

Also, candidates did little to stimulate interest in the primary campaign doubtless for the reason that they, too, had neither the time and the means to do so. There was also a paucity of issues.

While candidates have not been overly active in this primary campaign, the same excuses that obtained two years ago with regard to indifference do not obtain now. In fact, there is no valid excuse why one should not inform oneself as to the relative merits of the four candidates offered for the two who shall run for the position of mayor and the thirteen offered for the eight runners to be listed for the election as councilmanic candidates and to vote today accordingly.

Indifference regarding the primary election is a matter for regret. It is a duty coequal with any other duty one owes to one's local government to take one's privileged share in its operation. It is equally as important to participate in government as it was to win the war because it was indifference to the suffrage that brought on dictatorships in other less fortunate lands and so plunged the world into destruction and devastation.

Self-government is a precious thing, the value of which cannot safely be ignored. It should be preserved at all cost, and in fact that is one of the objects for which the global war was fought.

It is to be hoped that more general interest will be taken in the forthcoming general city election. But there should be interest today in the primary balloting for the simple reason that the better timber can here be selected for the final choices.

If people do not exercise their right of suffrage in these elections, they can have no one to blame except themselves if they are later dissatisfied with the operation of their local government and displeased because men are placed in charge of it who are incapable. And that is just what may happen unless the people vote today and vote intelligently and discriminatingly.

17 Persons Die In Anti-British Riots in Egypt

CARLO, March 4 (AP)—Fifteen Egyptians were slain by gunfire, two British military policemen were beaten to death and 301 persons were wounded today in rioting during "day of mourning" demonstrations in Alexandria, an official Egyptian communique said tonight.

The wounded were listed as 229 Egyptians and two British soldiers.

In Cairo, official sources said, 600 persons were arrested by police patrols which kept large crowds from forming.

Steel Pay Boost Does Not Apply To Fabricators

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—The steel wage issue—insular as 700 strike-bound fabricating plants are concerned—was wide open again tonight as President Truman declared his eighteen and one-half cent hourly wage increase recommendation applied not to them but to basic steel plants only.

The president urged that direct negotiations be held to gain settlements in the fabricating plants where 250,000 members of CIO's United Steel Workers still are on strike.

Mr. Truman's statement, made to a group of fabricators producing a variety of products from steel, was made public by Eileen Ayers, White House secretary.

Privately, Labor department officials voiced gloomy predictions that the president's action would prolong the steel pay struggle, since it leaves the steel-fabricating industry still without a wage pattern on which to base settlements.

Bodies of Babies Are First To Be Removed from Wreckage of Plane

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 4 (AP)—The bodies of two babies, so small that they were not even listed individually as passengers, were the first of twenty-seven victims removed today from the mountain-side wreckage of the nation's worst commercial airliner crash.

The infants—a 2-month-old boy and an 18-month-old girl—were found crushed and burned in the twisted debris of the American Airlines passenger plane.

They were hurried from their mothers' laps to become part of the "flesh and metal"—as one early arrival on the scene expressed it—when the plane hit the fog-shrouded peak forty-five miles east of here yesterday.

General Motors Makes No Reply; Break in Strike Is Possibility

UAW-CIO Lists Alternative Questions for Suggested Vote

FIRM WILL CONSIDER UNION'S PROPOSAL

Workers Could Return As Soon as Results of Ballot Are Known

DETROIT, March 4 (AP)—The CIO auto workers today qualifiedly accepted General Motors' proposal of a secret ballot on the question of ending the 104-day-old strike.

The union proposed to General Motors that the strikers in their vote be permitted to choose between two alternatives as follows:

1—"Do you favor returning to work and ending the current dispute on the basis of the corporation's eighteen and one-half cent wage increase offer and its latest proposals on basic contract matters, or

2—"Do you favor returning to work on the basis of the corporation's eighteen and one-half cent wage increase offer and its latest proposals on basic contract matters with the understanding that all issues still in dispute shall be submitted to arbitration by an arbitrator appointed by the president of the United States?"

The striking union submitted its new proposal to General Motors at a negotiation session at 5:30 p. m. EST today. General Motors made no immediate reply.

Proposals Are Exchanged
The proposal, under which 175,000 strikers might return to work, followed upon an exchange of peace propositions over the weekend.

First the union offered to end its walkout and return on the basis of the eighteen and one-half cent wage increase provided General Motors would submit the complete dispute to an arbitrator who would be named by President Truman.

Rejecting this proposal, General Motors countered with one of its own calling for a secret ballot by the strikers as to whether they would be willing to go back to the job for the eighteen and one-half cents increase, and General Motors concessions on other points. General Motors has called its eighteen and one-half cent proposal its "absolutely final" offer. The UAW-CIO has demanded nineteen and one-half cents.

In setting forth its new proposal, the union told General Motors that it felt its suggestion was the "only way possible to determine the wishes of General Motors workers."

The proposal was embraced in a

Longshoremen Vote To Return to Work

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP)—By a vote of 3 to 1, Baltimore's longshoremen voted today to end their eight-day "holiday" and return to work.

Results of the vote were announced by August Idzik, local head of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), who said the men would go back to their jobs tonight.

Idzik said votes were cast between 7 a. m. and 1 p. m. by 2,000 of the approximately 4,700 longshoremen and allied workers who left their jobs last Monday.

Another touching discovery that dimmed the eyes of sheriff's deputies and navy sailors in the removal party was a pocket Bible.

Found clear of the flames, it bore on the fly leaf: "To Lt. John Eugene Selover (young navy officer among the dead) from his mother, 1945."

The remains of the infants—daughter of Mrs. R. L. McCall, Tampa, Fla., and son of Mrs. Margaret Greener, Forest City, Ark.—were brought to a San Diego mortuary.

Bodies of the mothers and the eight other women and fifteen men victims were carried half a mile on litters to navy jeeps which took them two miles further along a

By GRAHAM HOVEY
WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France today asked the Spanish people to oust Generalissimo Franco by peaceful means, abolish his Falange party, and set up a "caretaker" government pledged to hold free elections.

The declaration stopped short of an immediate diplomatic break with the Spanish regime but said the nations face an international cold shoulder until it gets rid of the dictator.

At the same time, the United States—which proposed the three-power statement on Spain—made public fifteen documents captured in Europe, citing chapter and verse of Franco's ties with Hitler and Mussolini, and his fervent hopes that the Axis would win the war.

In general, the documents revealed that Franco proposed to:

1. Seize Gibraltar, cut off the vital Mediterranean western route to the Atlantic, insure the control of West-North Africa, and ship vital war minerals to Germany and Italy exclusively.

2. Hitler and Mussolini guaranteed Franco quantities of war supplies (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Truman Sits at Throttle of Train Taking Him, Churchill to Missouri

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
ABOARD TRUMAN-CHURCHILL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO MISSOURI, March 4 (AP)—President Truman donned the engineer's cap and took a turn today at the throttle of the Diesel-powered train taking him and Winston Churchill to Missouri.

The president inspected the whole train and shook hands with just about everyone aboard, while Churchill remained in their special car.

While chatting with the engineer, J. L. Rock, Baltimore, the fireman, C. J. Harry, Landsdale, Md., and the conductor, E. M. Marcum, Mr. Truman sat at the throttle to see, he said, how they ran the train.

The president later went out on the observation platform of the train at Keyser, W. Va., and waved to a small crowd which had gathered to watch the passing of the presidential train.

The president and the former prime minister will make a joint public appearance significant for the future of American-British collaboration.

The president set the pitch a few hours before the special train set out, with a new and strongly-worded endorsement of the British loan agreement as "a cornerstone in the world's structure of peace."

VOTE TODAY IN THE CITY PRIMARY

IT has probably crept up on most Cumberlanders unawares, owing to the fact that not a great deal of interest has been manifested in it, but today is biennial city primary election day and citizens are faced with the duty of going to the polls in their respective election precincts and casting their ballots for the runners in the city election to be held two weeks hence.

The last time a primary election was held in the city, there was much indifference on the part of the citizenry. It was understandable for several reasons. One was the fact that the people were grimly absorbed in the war effort, not merely through distraction of attention but also because so many of them had experienced a wholesale change of their scheduled time and effort by reason of the impact of the war program.

Also, candidates did little to stimulate interest in the primary campaign doubtless for the reason that they, too, had neither the time and the means to do so. There was also a paucity of issues.

While candidates have not been overly active in this primary campaign, the same excuses that obtained two years ago with regard to indifference do not obtain now. In fact, there is no valid excuse why one should not inform oneself as to the relative merits of the four candidates offered for the two who shall run for the position of mayor and the thirteen offered for the eight runners to be listed for the election as councilmanic candidates and to vote today accordingly.

Indifference regarding the primary election is a matter for regret. It is a duty coequal with any other duty one owes to one's local government to take one's privileged share in its operation. It is equally as important to participate in government as it was to win the war because it was indifference to the suffrage that brought on dictatorships in other less fortunate lands and so plunged the world into destruction and devastation.

Self-government is a precious thing, the value of which cannot safely be ignored. It should be preserved at all cost, and in fact that is one of the objects for which the global war was fought.

It is to be hoped that more general interest will be taken in the forthcoming general city election. But there should be interest today in the primary balloting for the simple reason that the better timber can here be selected for the final choices.

If people do not exercise their right of suffrage in these elections, they can have no one to blame except themselves if they are later dissatisfied with the operation of their local government and displeased because men are placed in charge of it who are incapable. And that is just what may happen unless the people vote today and vote intelligently and discriminatingly.

17 Persons Die In Anti-British Riots in Egypt

Cairo, March 4 (AP)—Fifteen Egyptians were slain by gunfire, two British military policemen were beaten to death and 301 persons were wounded today in rioting during "day of mourning" demonstrations in Alexandria, an official Egyptian communique said tonight.

The wounded were listed as 229 Egyptians and two British soldiers. In Cairo, official sources said, 600 persons were arrested by police patrols which kept large crowds from forming.

Prime Minister Ismail Sidki Pasha said in the communique that "police were obliged to fire" after rioters stoned Egyptian police and British troops.

Violent fighting in Egypt's chief port, broke out during the demonstrations for some fifteen Egyptians killed last week in anti-British rioting in Cairo.

The communique said the disorders started with "laborers and students, and police dispersed them at first peacefully and afterwards with clubs. The demonstrators then started stoning the police."

Later, the communique continued, a "huge demonstration took place at the Atlantic hotel," which is occupied by British naval officers, and demonstrators attempted to pull down a British flag.

A rumor swept through the demonstrators that shots had been fired from a house "occupied by British troops in the two top floors," the communique said. The mob attacked the house and set it afire and the rioters then set fire to a gas station and some shops before they were dispersed by Egyptian police, it added.

"When the demonstrators arrived at the British military police station they threw torches at the station and set fire to a gas station and some shops before they were dispersed by Egyptian police," it added.

General Motors Makes No Reply; Break in Strike Is Possibility

UAW-CIO Lists Alternative Questions for Suggested Vote

FIRM WILL CONSIDER UNION'S PROPOSAL

Workers Could Return As Soon as Results of Ballot Are Known

DETROIT, March 4 (AP)—The CIO auto workers today qualified accepted General Motors' proposal of a secret ballot on the question of ending the 104-day-old strike.

The union proposed to General Motors that the strikers in their vote be permitted to choose between two alternatives as follows:

1—"Do you favor returning to work and ending the current dispute on the basis of the corporation's eighteen and one-half cent wage increase offer and its latest proposals on basic contract matters, or

2—"Do you favor returning to work on the basis of the corporation's eighteen and one-half cent wage increase offer and its latest proposals on basic contract matters with the understanding that all issues still in dispute shall be submitted to arbitration by an arbitrator appointed by the president of the United States?"

The striking union submitted its new proposal to General Motors at a negotiation session at 5:30 p. m. EST today. General Motors made no immediate reply.

Proposals Are Exchanged
The proposal, under which 175,000 strikers might return to work, followed upon an exchange of peace propositions over the weekend.

First the union offered to quit its walkout and return on the basis of the eighteen and one-half cent wage increase provided General Motors would submit the complete dispute to an arbitrator who would be named by President Truman.

Rejecting this proposal, General Motors countered with one of its own calling for a secret ballot by the strikers as to whether they would be willing to go back to the job for the eighteen and one-half cents increase, and General Motors concessions on other points.

General Motors has called its eighteen and one-half cent proposal its "absolutely final" offer. The UAW-CIO has demanded nineteen and one-half cents.

In setting forth its new proposal, the union told General Motors that it felt its suggestion was the "only way possible to determine the wishes of General Motors workers."

Longshoremen Vote To Return To Work

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP)—By a vote of 3 to 1, Baltimore's longshoremen voted today to end their eight-day "holiday" and return to work.

Results of the vote were announced by August Idzik, local head of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), who said the men would go back to their jobs tonight.

Idzik said votes were cast between 7 a. m. and 1 p. m. by 2,000 of the approximately 4,700 longshoremen and allied workers who left their jobs last Monday.

Bodies of Babies Are First To Be Removed from Wreckage of Plane

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 4 (AP)—The bodies of two babies, so small that they were not even listed individually as passengers, were the first of twenty-seven victims removed today from the mountain-side wreckage of the nation's worst commercial airliner crash.

The infants—a 2-month-old boy and an 18-month-old girl—were found crushed and burned in the twisted debris of the American Airlines passenger plane.

They were hauled from their mothers' laps to become part of the "mess of flesh and metal"—as one early arrival on the scene expressed it—when the plane hit the fog-hidden peak forty-five miles east of here yesterday.

Rioting Flares In Midst of Iran Political Crisis

Four Persons Are Injured in Clash during Demonstration

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

TEHRAN, March 4 (AP)—Rioting broke out today in the midst of Iran's political crisis, now in its fourth day as a result of Russia's refusal to withdraw her troops from Northern Iran in accordance with the British-Russian-Iranian treaty of 1942.

Four persons were injured and six were arrested during a clash in front of the Parliament building and, as a result, a scheduled meeting of Parliament was postponed.

The fighting started during a demonstration staged by the leftist Tudeh party and was blamed by party leaders on "rightists." Witnesses said someone in the crowd of 2,000 to 3,000 touched off the clash by shouting "Death to the Tudehs!"

Meanwhile, there were no signs that the crisis was easing.

A cabinet member said the ministers had met twice on Russia's decision to keep troops in areas she regards as "disturbed." He added that the cabinet "felt it unwise to form any opinion" until the return of Premier Ahmed Qavam Es Saltanah from Moscow.

The Beyrouth radio heard in London said Ahmed Qavam left Moscow today.

A British foreign office spokesman said Great Britain had asked Russia to explain her refusal to withdraw her troops in accordance with the treaty which provided that all foreign troops should leave Iranian soil by March 2.

A Washington dispatch said Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala had asked the United States to join Britain in requesting an explanation.

Public opinion continued divided in Tehran.

College students celebrating the announcement that evacuation of the small eastern town of Samnan had begun, stopped their cheers when they heard the Russians were not withdrawing completely.

A cabinet member and close personal friend of the premier said "This is a sad day for Iran. We have been betrayed by an ally."

Previously Prince Firouz, director of propaganda and political under-secretary of state, said the Russian act was "a friendly gesture."

only one—Mrs. Emma Wolkin, employed by the Canadian government—pleaded guilty. The others did not enter a plea. They faced a maximum penalty of seven years imprisonment.

The investigation of at least nine other persons, some of them highly placed, is continuing.

The prime minister made public an interim report of the two-man Royal Commission conducting the espionage inquiry. It was the first detailed announcement of the nature of the espionage activity, disclosure of which on February 15 resulted in Moscow's charging the Canadian government with conducting an "unbridled anti-Soviet campaign."

Moscow already had announced that Col. Zabolot, who left Ottawa for Moscow in December, had been recalled. The Soviet government said that the scientific data obtained already was public property, but that Col. Zabolot had been recalled "in view of the inadmissibility of his activities."

The Royal Commission's report made these main points:

1. "The evidence establishes that a network of under-cover agents has been organized and developed for the purpose of obtaining secret and confidential information particularly from employees of departments and agencies of the Dominion government and from an employee of the office of the high commissioner for the United Kingdom in Canada."

2. "These operations were carried on by certain members of the staff of the Soviet embassy at Ottawa under direct instructions from Moscow." Col. Zabolot was assisted by Lt. Col. Motinov, chief assistant military attaché; Lt. Col. Rogov, assistant military attaché for air; Maj. Sokolov, of the commercial counsellor's staff; Lt. Angelov, a secretary, and "other members" of his staff.

3. These agents and others, sometimes operating by "under-cover" names, were instructed by someone in Moscow known as "The Director" to obtain the following data:

Particulars "as to the materials of which the atomic bomb is composed, its technological process and drawings."

Particulars of the atomic research plant at Chalk River, Ontario, and the processing of uranium, used in atomic energy. (The Chalk River plant is where Canada did her final work on the atomic bomb. Its product went to the United States to be made into the bomb.)

A sample of uranium 235, "with details as to the plant where it is produced."

"The technological processes and methods employed by Canadians and the English for the production of explosives and chemical materials."

"Models of developed radar sets, photographs, technical data, periodic reports characterizing the radar work carried on by the National Research Council and future developments planned by the council."

Details of research in explosives and artillery, shells, small arms, aeroplanes, optical and radio appliances, automobiles and tanks, apparatus for chemical warfare, and particulars of plants producing same."

After listing this and still other data allegedly sought by the Russians, the report said "it must not be assumed that the above list is exhaustive, but it illustrates the nature of the objectives of these operations."

The four persons charged with violations of the Official Secrets Act were arraigned today in the local city police court, a preliminary to their trial.

Remanded to March 11 and held in the county jail without bail, they are:

GREENWICH VOTERS POLL 5 TO 2 AGAINST UNO SITE

HERE IS A GENERAL VIEW of polls at the armory in Greenwich, Conn., as voters registered their opinions for or against inclusion of their town in the proposed permanent headquarters area of the United Nations Organization. Final tabulation showed 8,139 votes cast, of 20,468 eligible. Of the 8,139 polled, slightly more than 800 were folded by errors in use of the voting machines; 5,505 opposed inclusion of Greenwich in the UNO area, and 2,019 favored inclusion. Friends of UNO were cheered by the light vote.

Federal Judge and Debutante Will Reign as Mardi Gras King and Queen

By CARL CORBIN

NEW ORLEANS, March 4 (AP)—A stern federal judge and a debutante who has won medals for her rifle marksmanship will reign as king and queen of tomorrow's Mardi Gras, the first since 1941.

In the role of Rex, ruler of carnival, will be Judge Wayne G. Borah, of United States District Court here.

His queen will be Miss Emmy Lou Dicks, 26-year-old daughter of a manufacturing chemist. She was formally presented to New Orleans society this year by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dicks.

Judge Borah, who presided six years ago at the "Louisiana scandals" trials, commented today that his reign over tomorrow's gaiety would be "all pantomime."

The celebration, over which the royal pair will reign is to climax this year's carnival season, restored after a lapse of five years caused by World War II.

Traditionally, the last fling before the beginning of Lent is the parade on Ash Wednesday, tomorrow's Mardi Gras. It is marked by general public masking from sunup to sunset, three major street parades, numerous processions by small organizations and two major court balls.

Rex and Zulu, the latter the ruler of the negro merry-makers, will parade during the day. At night, Comus, diety of the oldest of the carnival organizations, will lead his torchlit procession through the streets as the final pageant of the season.

Mardi Gras officially ends as the court of Rex and the court of Comus, both entertaining at separate balls at the municipal auditorium, join at midnight.

New Effort

and John J. Moran, president of the long lines federation, and bargaining teams from both sides are expected to come to Washington.

When today's meeting ended, Moran said:

"The union's demands of eighteen and one-half cents per hour, which have not been met up until now, and the company's offer of approximately fifteen cents, leave us with but one alternative and that is to complete our arrangements for a strike."

The date was fixed two weeks ago at a meeting of NTFW executives in Memphis, Tenn. In addition to the long lines group, sixteen other NTFW affiliates also have voted to strike Thursday.

A. T. and T. said in a statement that it had suggested that negotiations be continued. A spokesman for the company added:

"Warren Hopes To Avert Tie-up — We are still ready, willing and anxious to continue negotiations anywhere in the Bell System (A. T. and T. subsidiary)."

In Washington, Warren said he hoped to avert a shutdown of long distance and local operator service either by settlement before Thursday or through adoption of other procedure.

Warren said he was receiving reports on the status of negotiations with various NTFW affiliates throughout the nation and was attempting to contact Joseph A. Beirne, NTFW president, to determine what type of arbitration the union leader might consider as an alternative to striking.

If I were a veteran hunting for a home, I would be rather disappointed tonight—a bit perplexed and not a little angry.

"The vote against premium payments is a blow at the heart of the veterans' emergency housing program."

"As I have said before, we cannot provide the homes needed for veterans without the use of premium payments to expand production of building materials."

We shall continue the fight for these payments. I think we will win. Why do I think we will win? Because the leaders of American industry and labor and all veteran organizations, every public interest group in the country are back of our program.

Two voices stand out in dissent—the Producers council and the National Association of Real Estate brokers and one of the founding fathers of the producers council—its former president—has withdrawn from the producers council on behalf of his company, one of the biggest in America, because of the council's activities. I refer to Russell G. Creviston and Crane Company of Chicago.

"I predict others will follow this lead. I do not believe that the great bulk of building materials producers agree with this pressure campaign by the Producers council. You can't tell me that they favor ignoring veterans housing needs, that they want wild inflation in the prices of homes, that they are against the veterans emergency housing program."

No Comment from Groups

There was no immediate comment from the two organizations.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.), who with Rep. Brown (D-Ga.) led the opposition to subsidies, said it was proposed to give Wyatt $600,000,000 to spend as he pleases."

Brown declared that the administration would get ninety per cent of its program without subsidies.

As it stands now, pending further action by the House, the housing bill provides:

1. Priorities for veterans in the use of scarce building materials for homes. This would continue the government's wartime authority to use priorities and allocations in channeling scarce building materials into homes.

2. Price ceilings for new homes. The house rejected an administration proposal to put price ceilings on existing homes.

3. Powers for the housing administrator to issue directives to other government agencies, including OPA. This would give Wyatt authority to tell OPA what ceilings to put on building materials.

The second will cover the United States Chamber of Commerce as a service agency, in for-profit center and guidance council for businessmen. The third phase of the program will cover material sent out by the department of government affairs of the chamber of commerce, while the fourth phase will be based upon workings of the department of government affairs.

Dickie said that more business men, large and small, through the efforts of this program, are becoming interested in national affairs, and in legislation which comes before congress from time to time. Interest is also being aroused in rulings affecting various administrative agencies of the federal government, he explained.

A similar meeting is scheduled for Clarksburg, W. Va., next Friday and another at Charleston, W. Va., the following Monday, Dickie stated. After these are held, the program will have been carried to every congressional district in the southern division, with the exception of Eastern Maryland. A meeting will be held in that district sometime in April.

Rioting Flares In Midst of Iran Political Crisis

Four Persons Are Injured in Clash during Demonstration

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN
TEHRAN, March 4 (AP)—Rioting broke out today in the midst of Iran's political crisis, now in its fourth day as a result of the Russian refusal to withdraw her troops from Northern Iran in accordance with the British-Russian-Iranian treaty of 1942.

Four persons were injured and six were arrested during a clash in front of the Parliament building and, as a result, a scheduled meeting of Parliament was postponed. The fighting started during a demonstration staged by the leftist Tudeh party and was blamed by party leaders on "rightists." Witnesses said someone in the crowd of 3,000 to 3,500 touched off the clash by shouting "Death to the Tudehs!"

Meanwhile, there were no signs that the crisis was easing. A cabinet member said the ministers had met twice today in a decision to keep troops in areas he regards as "disturbed." He added that the cabinet "felt it unwise to form any opinion" until the return of Premier Ahmed Qavam to Tehran from Moscow.

(A British foreign office spokesman said Great Britain had asked Russia to explain her refusal to withdraw her troops in accordance with the treaty which provided that all foreign troops should leave Iranian soil by March 2.)

(A Washington dispatch said Iranian Ambassador Hussein Ala had asked the United States to join Britain in requesting an explanation.)

Public opinion continued divided in Tehran. College students celebrating the announcement that evacuation of the small eastern town of Samman had begun, stopped their cheers when they heard the Russians were not withdrawing completely. A cabinet member and close personal friend of the premier said "This is a sad day for Iran. We have been betrayed by an ally." Previously Prince Firouz, director of propaganda and political secretary of state, said the Russian act was "a friendly gesture."

only one—Mrs. Emma Wolkin, employed by the Canadian government—pleaded guilty. The others did not enter a plea. They faced a maximum penalty of seven years imprisonment. The investigation of at least nine other persons, some of them highly-placed, is continuing. The prime minister made public an interim report of the two-man Royal Commission conducting the espionage inquiry. It was the first detailed announcement of the nature of the espionage activity, disclosure of which on February 15 resulted in Moscow's charging the Canadian government with conducting an "unbridled anti-Soviet campaign."

Moscow already had announced that Col. Zabolot, who left Ottawa for Moscow in December, had been recalled. The Soviet government said that the scientific data obtained already was public property, but that Col. Zabolot had been recalled "in view of the inadmissibility" of his activities. The Royal Commission's report made these main points: 1. "The evidence establishes that a network of under-cover agents has been organized and developed for the purpose of obtaining secret and confidential information particularly from employees of departments and agencies of the Dominion government and from an employee of the office of the high commissioner for the United Kingdom in Canada."

2. "These operations were carried on by certain members of the staff of the Soviet embassy at Ottawa under direct instructions from Moscow." Col. Zabolot was assisted by Lt. Col. Motinoff, chief assistant military attaché; Lt. Col. Rogov, assistant military attaché for air; Maj. Sokolov, of the commercial counsellor's staff; Lt. Angelo, a secretary, and "other members" of his staff.

3. These agents and others, sometimes operating by "under-cover names," were instructed by someone in Moscow known as "The Director" to obtain the following data:

Particulars "as to the materials of which the atomic bomb is composed, its technological process and drawings." Particulars of the atomic research plant at Chalk River, Ontario, and the processing of uranium, used in atomic energy. (The Chalk River plant is where Canada did her final work on the atomic bomb. Its product went to the United States to be made into the bomb.)

A sample of uranium 23, "with details as to the plant where it is produced." The technological processes and methods employed by Canadians and the English for the production of explosives and chemical materials.

Models of developed radar sets, photographs, technical data, periodic reports characterizing the radar work carried on by the National Research Council and future developments planned by the council. Details of research in explosives and artillery, shells, small arms, aerials, optical and radio appliances, automobiles and tanks, apparatus for chemical warfare "and particulars of plants producing same."

After listing this and still other data allegedly sought by the Russians, the report said "it must not be assumed that the above list is exhaustive, but it illustrates the nature of the objectives of these operations."

The four persons charged with violations of the Official Secrets act were arraigned today in the local city police court, a preliminary to their trial.

Remanded to March 11 and held in the county jail without bail, they are:

Of the 8,139 polled, slightly more than 800 were fooled by errors in use of the voting machines; 3,506 opposed inclusion of Greenwich in the UNO area, and 2,019 favored inclusion. ## Federal Judge and Debutante Will Reign as Mardi Gras King and Queen

By CARL CORBIN

NEW ORLEANS, March 4 (AP)—A stern federal judge and a debutante who has won medals for her rifle marksmanship will reign as king and queen of tomorrow's Mardi Gras, the first since 1941.

In the role of Rex, ruler of carnival, will be Judge Wayne G. Borah, of United States District Court here. His queen will be Miss Emily Lou Dick, 30-year-old daughter of a manufacturing chemist. She was formally presented to New Orleans society this year by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dick.

Judge Borah, who presided six years ago at the "Louisiana scandals" trials, commented today that his reign over tomorrow's gaiety would be "all pantomime." The celebration over which the royal pair will reign is to climax letter to President E. Wilson, of GM, and was presented in that form at the negotiation meeting. "Your proposal," the UAW-CIO told GM, is incomplete. Your proposition is that the GM workers vote merely as to whether they wish to accept the corporation's last offer and return to work on that basis. "If the workers vote to turn down that proposition, we are still at the same impasse. In fact settlement of the strike will have been delayed by as many days as it takes to arrange the mechanics of balloting, since obviously the corporation will make no further offers in collective bargaining until the results of the vote are known."

"Our proposition makes possible an immediate return to work as soon as the results are known," said Rep. W. Anderson, GM vice-president in charge of personnel, said that the company would take the union's plan under consideration but decline to specify when an answer might be expected.

Anderson declined to comment further, and said he did not know if an answer would be ready for tomorrow's negotiations at 2 p. m. When asked if he thought anything could be worked out on the basis of the union's proposal Anderson said, "I do not know."

nation except for the "regrettable incidents in Alexandria."

Tonight, Gov. Hassan Bey, of Alexandria, said "order has been restored," but he declined to give any details of the rioting. Quiet prevailed in Cairo, but the strike resulted in paralysis of transportation and cessation of all commercial activity.

The rioting in Alexandria flared near the Rambley tram station in the heart of the Mediterranean port city. This account was given in unofficial reports: The crowds, demonstrating near the Atlantic hotel, a British hotel, attempted to pull down a British flag and gunfire ensued. Several persons were killed. The demonstrators then threw kerosene into the elevator shaft of the hotel and set it ablaze. Firemen used ladders to rescue the British personnel.

Repulsed from the hotel area, the demonstrators gathered near a British military police hut, where another clash occurred. Some business establishments were damaged.

and John J. Moran, president of the long lines federation, and bargaining teams from both sides are expected to come to Washington.

When today's meeting ended, Moran said: "The union's demands of eighteen and one-half cents per hour, which have not been met up until now, and the company's offer of approximately fifteen cents, leave us with but one alternative and that is to complete our arrangements for a strike."

The date was fixed two weeks ago at a meeting of NTFW executives in Memphis, Tenn. In addition to the long lines group, sixteen other NTFW affiliates also have voted to strike Thursday.

A. T. and T. said in a statement that it had suggested that negotiations be continued. A spokesman for the company added:

Warren Hopes To Avert Tie-up
"We are still ready, willing and anxious to continue negotiations anywhere in the Bell System (A. T. and T. subsidiary)."

In Washington, Warren said he hoped to avert a shutdown of long distance and local operator service either by settlement before Thursday or through adoption of other procedure.

Warren said he was receiving reports on the status of negotiations with various NTFW affiliates throughout the nation and was attempting to contact Joseph A. Beirne, NTFW president, to determine what type of arbitration the union leader might consider as an alternative to striking.

minimum wage from forty cents an hour to fifty-five cents.

Wilson W. Wyatt, housing expediter, said the goal of 2,700,000 homes in two years, constructed by private industry, could not be attained without the subsidy payments.

Wyatt later issued a statement in which he said: "If I were a veteran hunting for a home, I would be rather disappointed tonight—a bit perplexed and not a little angry."

"The vote against premium payments is a blow at the heart of the veterans' emergency housing program."

Will Continue Fight
"As I have said before, we cannot provide the homes needed for veterans without the use of premium payments to expand production of building materials."

"We shall continue the fight for these payments. I think we will win. Why do I think we will win? Because the veterans' American industry and labor and all veterans organizations, every public interest group in the country are back of our program."

"Two voices stand out in dissent—the Producers council and the National Association of Real Estate Boards and one of the founding fathers of the producers council—its former president—who has withdrawn from the producers council on behalf of his company, one of the biggest in America, because of the council's activities. I refer to Russell G. Crane and the Crane Company of Chicago."

"I predict others will follow this lead. I do not believe that the great bulk of building materials producers agree with this pressure campaign by the Producers council. You can't tell me that they favor ignoring veterans housing needs that they want wild inflation in the prices of homes, that they are against the veterans emergency housing program."

No Comment from Groups
There was no immediate comment from the two organizations. Rep. Brown (D-Mich.), who with Rep. Wilcox (D-Ga.) led the opposition to subsidies, said it was proposed to give Wyatt $600,000,000 "to spend as he pleases."

Brown declared that the administration would get ninety per cent of its program without subsidies. As it stands, now, pending further action by the House, the housing bill provides:

1. Priorities for veterans in the use of scarce building materials for homes. This would continue the government's wartime authority to use priorities and allocations in channeling scarce building materials into homes.

2. Price ceilings for new homes. The house rejected an administration proposal to put price ceilings on existing homes.

3. Powers for the housing administrator to issue directives to other government agencies, including OPA. This would give Wyatt authority to tell OPA what ceilings to put on building materials.

plies, armaments, planes, submarines, fuel, food and manpower.

With these conditions met, a confident Franco told the Axis leaders in 1940 that he would place Spain "in the struggle against the common enemies (the Allies)."

The proposal, the document showed, came to nothing when Hitler told his chief partner, Mussolini, that Hitler was "not convinced that Spain had xxx the same intensity of will for giving (aid to the Axis) as for talking."

Negotiations went from bad to worse, according to the State department publication, and in December, 1943, a now-shaken Franco told Hitler's ambassador in Madrid, Dieckhoff, according to the envoy's report to Berlin, that:

"He (Franco) knew for certain and was clearly conscious of the fact that only the victory of Germany would make possible the continued existence of the regime of Franco; a victory of the Anglo-Saxons, in spite of all the pacifying declarations xxx by the English and American side, would mean his (Franco's) own annihilation."

The three Allied governments warned, in their joint declaration, that the Spanish people could not expect "full and cordial association" with them so long as Franco remains.

Emphasizing there was no intention to interfere in Spain's internal affairs, the statement expressed hope that the Spanish people would not again have "the horrors and the bitterness of civil strife."

Hence, it said, the three governments hoped "leading patriotic and liberal-minded Spaniards" soon would find a way to bring "a peaceful withdrawal of Franco" along with elimination of the Falange and creation of an interim government.

The third phase of the program, a material sent out by the department of government affairs of the chamber of commerce, while the fourth phase will be based upon workings of the department of government affairs.

Dickie said that more business men, large and small, through the efforts of this program, are becoming interested in national affairs, and in legislation which comes before congress from time to time. Interest is also being aroused in rulings affecting various administrative agencies of the federal government, he explained.

A similar meeting is scheduled for Clarksville, W. Va., next Friday and another at Charleston, W. Va., the following Monday, Dickie stated. After these are held, the program will have been carried to every congressional district in the southern division, with the exception of Eastern Maryland. A meeting will be held in that district sometime in April.

The problem of housing is one of the most SEVERE that we here in America have to face today. Recently, in Cumberland, and in other cities throughout the country, an appeal was broadcast for all that could possibly do so to take people into their homes, to double up, to help in every way to ease the shortage.

New homes will be built. Legislation is in process that puts top priority on building for the next few years. A machine has been perfected that pours a house completely out of concrete in twenty-four hours. The homes of the next few years will be wonderful things to have and to live in. They will contain all the latest developments of science that make for better and more comfortable living. While the inconvenience is very acute now, in a few short years we shall be the best-housed people in the world, just as we are now the best-fed and the best-clothed. This era of building we are about to enter upon is a backlog of jobs and prosperity for everyone.

We at Rosenbaum's are planning now in order that we may be of service to you when you build or buy that house, or move into that apartment. Our floor covering and drapery department is now in the process of being remodeled. Our staff of experienced decorators has been increased. We shall have the distinctive, fine linens that add so much to the livability of your home. We shall have exquisite china and glassware to grace your table, fine kitchenware to ease the housewife's tasks.

So when you get that roof over your head, think of us. We are ready and able to advise you on decorating and equipping that home you have dreamed about.

A Call for Economy That Should Be Heeded

IT IS TO BE HOPED that the warning by sixteen members of the House and Senate at Washington, who are both Democrats and Republicans, that the federal budget can be balanced and should be balanced during the new fiscal year will have due influence with their colleagues with resulting action. But, it cannot be done through wishful thinking and the continuation of high taxes alone.

"We cannot afford to continue war agencies overdue for demobilization, or war functions of doubtful value in civil agencies," the joint statement of these legislators said.

Not only should the purely war agencies be shaken out, but the excess employment in peacetime agencies should be reduced to within reason. Senator Byrd, (D-Va) who was one of the signers of the statement, has pointed out repeatedly that the peacetime agencies are over-swollen and should long since have been reduced. Yet, despite the obvious need for that, instead of reducing them, the Washington administration has actually been enlarging them.

Senator Byrd, as chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, has pointed out that employment in the federal government could and should be cut, with the ending of hostilities, to approximately the prewar total of less than a million employees. According to the Bureau of the Budget, he noted, more than a million and a half employees of the government were engaged in the war work. "The liquidation of the war agencies plus the elimination of unnecessary activities," he declared, "should cut federal personnel from the present three-million mark to a postwar one million with a consequent saving in payroll alone of upwards of five billion dollars annually." This, he added, called for an immediate elimination of all unnecessary jobs, with the war workers given every aid possible in placing them in positions outside the government once war veterans are provided for.

It is of interest in this connection to be reminded that of the grand total of paid civilian employment in the executive branch of the federal government, that existing in Maryland at the beginning of the current fiscal year, as reported by Chairman Byrd's committee, was no less than 50,651. That is a group, or an army, rather large than the present population of Cumberland, and second city in size in the state. It is good to see a Maryland member of the Senate, Senator Tydings, appreciative of this as well as of the grand total, which he has demonstrated by including himself as one of the signers of the joint statement.

"We urge members of Congress and citizens who believe in a balanced budget," the joint statement declared, "to support now every move to put the United States on a sound fiscal basis. Only as that is done, can our country successfully discharge its obligations. It must be done also if we are to lick inflation, the danger of which is daily recognized by the legislators in their declaration that every deficit dollar which the federal government spends adds to inflationary pressure."

Encouraging Prediction

THOSE disheartened by the continual reports of industrial stoppages might gain a degree of consolation in noting what a New York management engineering firm has said in predicting the inflation menace.

"Wage rates will rise about fifteen per cent above last August. Price mark-ups will be permitted to offset increased costs."

"Wave of strikes will subside, but probably will rise again within a year."

"The wholesale price index for all commodities will rise about ten per cent with cost of living index rising six or seven per cent."

"Production will soon rise rapidly. The pipe line between producer and distributor is being filled."

"Labor shortages will soon disappear."

"Labor efficiency will rise rapidly."

"Buyers will not stampede the market."

"There will not be dangerously large speculative buying."

There is only one sour note in this forecast, and that is that after subduing the wave of strikes will rise again. But with more labor available, more goods on the market and the cost of living advancing slowly, there is reason to hope the next strike wave will not crest so high. The future seems brighter than it did a few days ago, according to this prognostication.

These Services Should Continue

THE ANNUAL RED CROSS DRIVE is under way here and it is superfluous to state that it should be supported by the citizenry. It has received that support in the past and it will receive it again this time in Allegany county as well as elsewhere.

Some may wonder why, since the war is all over, so much money is needed to sustain this great humanitarian organization. But the sum sought is not "so much." In view of the uses to which it is put, the aggregate amount is really moderate. Only $30,500 is desired in this county not only for the county's share in the national budget, but also for carrying on the splendid work of the organization in the country.

It is one of the splendid features of the Red Cross that its work is carried on locally as well as nationally and internationally.

And as for why so much work is and the need for continuing it, let the following reminders appertain as to what will result when a few dollars are given at this end, or any of its many outlets.

Immediately a trouble shooter, wearing the Red Cross, calls on a lonely American soldier in Germany, worried over a wife, a child, he has not yet seen or a sick mother. The Red Cross man or woman will straighten out his worry and get him information.

A Red Cross nurse carrying books, magazines and cigarettes goes smiling through a hospital, ready to chat, play games or write letters for patients too ill to hold a pen.

A serviceman stuck on Saipan, Tarawa or other remote places, bored with occupation duty, is cheered by the Red Cross.

A sack of flour, a box of medicine, a crate of milk or a bundle of clothing will appear as if by magic to a family in Europe or Asia, without which the family might perish.

A child, on the verge of freezing, will be saved by a ton of coal. Victims of fire, flood or hurricane will receive shelter, food and warmth until they can carry on for themselves.

All that, and more, will result, without delay, from a contribution to the Red Cross, and similar aid and services will be spontaneously result in the local field.

Yes, the Red Cross is well worth while and deserves the hearty support of all right-minded persons.

Timber Supply Gets Critical

SEVERAL MEASURES have been proposed in Congress to get housing construction rolling and to end the terrific inflation that has followed wild bidding for scarce items. The home construction industry is struggling not with one shortage but with dozens of them. All material that goes into the making of a home is in insufficient supply.

The chief item, lumber, is critically scarce. The war took an enormous bite out of the nation's timber supply, consumption having been at six times the rate of World War I. Construction was engaged in all over the world, whereas in World War I American lumber was used only in Britain and France.

In the next ten years, it is estimated, demand for lumber will average ten per cent above the 1930-40 rate. The United States has long had a dwindling timber supply. The cut has exceeded the growth for years, despite the warnings of conservationists that some day the country would be poverty-stricken in wood. Reforestation campaigns have received some support, but a period when new growth will balance consumption is not in sight. The lesson, accordingly, is obvious.

Japanese Revelation

ARMAMENT SALES to the Axis have been recounted in many a tale, but fewer are the instances in which the Axis sold weapons to its enemies. According to Ho Shu-Yuan, Japanese unit commanders disposed of ammunition, sometimes in quantities of 100,000 rounds, in 1929 and 1945. Both the forces of Chiang Kai-Shek and the Chinese communists obtained considerable equipment in this manner.

Before Pearl Harbor and afterwards, Americans were told they could not understand Japanese minds. The Japanese apparently figured the Chinese would obtain munitions anyway, so why not profit by the opportunity? The revelation emphasizes the tremendous task of the United Nations in remoulding Japanese thought.

A dispatch from Vienna reports people there are starting to see a Nazi flag fluttering from a third story window. Police who investigated discovered that Russian troops had been using the flag as a scrubbing rag, had hung it out carefully and hung it to dry. The real mystery here is that anybody should have expected that a Nazi flag could clean anything.

What, it may be inquired, has become of that movement to streamline federal government agencies over which we heard so much not long ago?

If the warnings of a still more acute butter shortage are borne out, there will be less of what people haven't been spreading on their bread recently.

FINISHERS

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

This world is full of Starters, but how rare are the Finishers! In a horse race there is but one that gets the united applause of the crowd. Many of the good Starters don't even "show." I recently came across this line:

"And as he spoke, his wings would fold and then spread, as he meant to fly, then close again—"

Many a man figuratively flaps his wings, struts, makes a lot of false moves and noise, then goes no farther. He has the idea, but not the will, or character, to go ahead and finish his flight. On the other hand there are those who make the start and fail. Then they start again—and again. Then they perhaps get their "second wind" and high they soar—beyond their own, and the expectations of others.

Our potentialities are hidden. The Creator endowed us with them, but we have to dig, dive, or bomb our way to them. We never know what we are going to find within our hidden selves. We often discover things unexpectedly. Heroic joy is that joy that comes to us unaware, after strife, sorrow, or suffering.

The old masters in art took time. They were in no hurry to finish. And the great classic writers were not concerned with "book club" offers, and huge printing orders. Money had no thrill for them. They wrote that their expression might live. The honored memory of many now live by a single book—a lifetime of toil. Few wanted Whitman's "Leaves of Grass." It took years before America and the world awoke to the rare beauty in Thoreau's "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers." Only 200 copies were sold in the first few years. Today a single copy is the pride of a book lover, that is, that first edition, published at his expense in 1849. It even took its author years to pay off that printing debt!

But that did not deter Thoreau. He went on about his work, studying nature and all its wonderful revelations. He wrote many other books that today are in treasuries of literature. He was a rare Finisher. The work of the Finishers lives on!

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Herbert Hoover Hesitated about Going To Food Conference, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson had a hard time at first persuading Herbert Hoover to come to Washington for a food conference. Anderson caught the ex-president at Key West, Fla., where he was fishing.

"I've promised my family for seven years to take them fishing," Hoover told the secretary of agriculture, "and now at last here I am."

Anderson, however, emphasized the urgency of the food crisis.

"We need your experience and advice, Mr. President," he said. "You can go back to your fishing immediately afterward. But this is a time when your country needs you."

Hoover finally consented to come. It was Secretary Anderson who also said President Truman on the idea of having Hoover go to Europe and study the food problems of the neediest countries. Hoover had been asked for advice last fall by the Belgian and Dutch governments, and had told them:

"Estimate your grain needs now and buy Canadian wheat for the entire year. But insist on immediate delivery."

The Dutch and Belgian governments followed his advice, now are relatively well stocked.

Note—Many other European governments, of course, did not have the money to buy. Or, if they had, there wouldn't have been enough grain for all of them.

Wiscracks Stopped Douglas

There was some unique maneuvering behind the plan to put Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas in Harold Ickes's place as secretary of the Interior. It began at a cocktail party given by Congressman Lyndon Johnson, of Texas, in honor of his Texas friend, Alvin Wirtz.

Toward the end of the party, Speaker Sam Rayburn, also of Texas, got together with Justice Douglas, Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, Tom Corcoran, Johnson and Wirtz. They proceeded to put the bee on Douglas to take Ickes's place.

Douglas was not enthusiastic. His friend, however, urged that Truman needed somebody of real stature to step into Ickes's shoes. They also pointed out that a big job was to be done in the Interior department, that it could take over the far-flung Jap islands of the Pacific, that Alaska was awaiting development, that polar airplane routes needed to be established, that the nation's Missouri river and other giant power projects needed to be pushed.

Finally, at 9:30 p. m., Douglas consented to keep an open mind and it was decided that Speaker Rayburn would put the idea up to President Truman, which he did the next day. Immediately Truman invited Douglas to lunch.

However, although the president seemed anxious to have Douglas in his cabinet, he did little selling. He did not talk about the big opportunities which lay ahead in Alaska, or the polar caps, or the Pacific islands. He merely seemed to view the Interior department as a routine job.

Perhaps the factor which finally dissuaded Douglas from taking the job, however, was delightful, wise-cracking George Allen. George had just been confirmed by the Senate as director of the RFC. And he and the president jumbled so much over this event that hard-working, idealistic Justice Douglas wondered now he would be able to stand that kind of company for three years.

In the end, he declined the job. Note—Another factor was Chief Justice Stone who raised Cain about the fact that the Supreme court was being raided. Stone has never gotten over the manner in which Justice Jackson deserted the court to become war crimes prosecutor in Germany, believes the work of the Supreme court should be just what the name implies—"supreme."

No White Spaghetti

Some of the strongest opposition to the president's "dark bread" order coming from an unexpected quarter—spaghetti manufacturers. Spaghetti, macaroni and noodles are made from semolina, a gritty flour made, in turn, from durum wheat.

Semolina millers, as well as spaghetti makers, are up in arms about the "dark bread" order, declaring it will drive them out of business. Already a number of semolina mills in the Minneapolis area have filed an exception to the order.

The normal extraction rate of semolina from durum wheat—raised chiefly in South Dakota—is from sixty-three to sixty-five per cent. At this rate, spaghetti is white and inviting. But the president's order for a uniform eighty per cent extraction rate, semolina producers say, will make spaghetti, macaroni and noodles gray in color and too brittle for proper cooking.

They argue that Italian-Americans and other spaghetti fanatics will refuse to buy the inferior product, and that semolina mills, as well as spaghetti factories, will be driven out of business. The noodle industry, including the soup companies, is voicing similar complaints.

So the semolina millers are demanding exemption from the president's order. It's a big headache for Department of Agriculture officials. They understand the problems of the spaghetti people, but at the same time realize the dangers of amending the order for one group. For this reason, it's a 10 to 1 bet that the semolina millers will be turned down.

Maine Continues Republican

It was always Franklin Roosevelt's ambition to carry the rock-ribbed state of Maine. Last year he came within 10,000 votes. However, any hope Truman may have had in this direction went glimmering the other day when he snubbed the annual Maine dinner.

Luscious Maine lobsters and other fish delicacies had been rushed to Washington for the occasion, and honor guest was to be President Truman—a close friend in his senatorial days of Maine's Republican senator, Owen Brewster.

The guest list was given the usual strict investigation by Secret Service. The cafeteria of the Department of the Interior was rented, and Truman had assured Sen. Brewster in a personal note twelve days in advance that he, Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret would attend.

But about six hours before the dinner, Sen. Brewster received a call from the White House conveying the president's regrets. Unfortunately, Brewster was told, the first family had an engagement to meet with a convention of Masons and would not be able to attend the Maine dinner.

This aroused the curiosity of Elizabeth May Craig, Portland, Maine, newspaper correspondent who has been a thorn in the sides of various presidents. Checking with the Masons, she discovered that their appointment with Truman had been made only a day before, and that the Masons were completely flustered by the necessity of making their arrangements within the short space of twenty-four hours. In addition, Mrs. Craig discovered, the Masons' appointment with the Trumans was for 4 p. m., whereas the Maine Society dinner was not until 8 p. m.

The Maine group enjoyed their lobbyists and listened to a full program of speeches, but not once during the entire evening was any mention made by the master of ceremonies or any of the speakers that a distinguished guest was missing. With true New England tactfulness, there was no word of regret at the absence of the chief executive.

Payoff came when nothing was said of the home-made bedspread brought down from Maine to be presented to the president. Instead of sending it over to the White House, the Maine Society simply sent it back to Maine, to the housewife who had made it.

Rudderless Nation Is Seen Facing a New Depression

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Thirteen years have elapsed since the late President Roosevelt was inaugurated in the midst of an economic crisis that had forced the closing of the banks of the nation. The American people responded to the drastic steps and co-operated with the government in the hope that firm leadership could bring order out of chaos.

Today an economic crisis not so acute in its appearance as the one of 1933 is in the making. There is no vigorous leadership—in fact, there are major groups demanding that the economic warfare be permitted to go to the point of exhaustion while the rival interests pursue their bitter conflict.

Strikes and work stoppages are blinding reconstruction and reconstruction. Quarrels over wages have prevented the national income from achieving the levels that had been expected. Instead of a boom, as predicted, the nation is slowly drifting into a serious depression.

Earnings Drop Sharply

Already it seems certain the first-quarter statements of earnings will show a sharp drop and that losses compared to the expected gains will be widespread. It is evident that the anticipated wage increases have already been wiped out by the prolonged work stoppages. Purchasing power is being diminished and the temper of the people is one of widespread dissatisfaction with the failure of the government to provide the necessary leadership to swing the country to a rate of production which it was reasonable to expect this year.

It is easy to blame the labor unions and their leaders and even easier to blame the managements for failing to surrender their profits—It depends on which point of view one adopts. The truth is the unions faced a critical situation in the decrease of take-home pay for their members and the managements faced uncertainties as to the demand they would have and prices they could charge.

Under such circumstances, when the economic ship seeks to operate without a rudder, someone must supply the steering apparatus. Since labor will not permit management to do the steering or vice versa, the public interest requires that the government do it.

Rule for the Rich

Small businesses are suffering from the unscientific and unwieldy way wage increases are being forced. Instead of developing a system wherein each industry can work out levels that will take care of the weaker competitors, the rule is to impose wages which only the rich and powerful companies can pay.

The government's wage and price policy hurts small businesses. Thus the monopolies, or at least those with the largest amount of volume of dollars or production on their books, come out better while the smaller competing units face a serious decision. Some may be forced out of business altogether. This is not leadership but careless administration.

President Truman knows he is being widely criticized. But his trouble is that he does not have a set of advisers who know very much about the operations of the economic system. It is all very well to theorize, but the facts of business life often upset many a well-conceived theory. This is because the laws of trade and merchandise are affected by price-fixing and government can only adjust the inequities of the price system by recognizing that it is also forcing increases in costs through blanket wage increases.

Expansion Is Blocked

If it is intended to discourage risk capital and decide arbitrarily what profits shall be earned, incentives to expansion will not emerge. Instead, just as soon as pent-up demands for goods now short are met, the few months' boom that must inevitably follow the present recession will collapse and the real depression will come sooner than expected.

The Republicans were charged with the "Hoover depression of 1929-33" but unless there is a better leadership in Washington, there will be a "Truman depression" in the next eighteen months which it will not be possible for the Democrats to blame on their Republican opponents.

The executive and legislative branches of the government are Democratic and the people at the polls next November will have their first opportunity to express themselves on the failure of the Washington government to act vigorously in relation to strikes and work stoppages.

New Battle Line Against Inflation Is Believed Futile

By MARK SULLIVAN

The administration last week (through the Office of Price Administration) announced detailed increases in the prices of steel materials, beams and the like. The increases average about $5 a ton, or something like eight per cent. These increases will later become increases in the prices of goods into which steel enters.

This action is a landmark. It marks the end of the first battle in the fight against inflation. The new strategy, upon which we now enter, can be understood by reviewing briefly the steps that led up to it.

When the war ended last August, the administration, in setting up its program for reconstruction, adopted a policy of promoting wage raises. The policy was frank in expression, direct in execution. It was carried out by President Truman personally, by fact-finding boards he appointed, and by other administrative agencies. For five months, wage-raising was a cornerstone of the administration's reconstruction program.

The wage-raising was accompanied by a corollary policy, or an assumption. The assumption was that wages could be raised without causing increases in the prices of goods.

Fallacy Admitted

By January this assumption was admitted to be a fallacy. The CIO union of steel workers had struck for a wage raise. President Truman told the steel manufacturers to grant a raise of eighteen and a half cents per hour. The steel manufacturers said they could not do this without an increase in the price of what they make. Mr. Truman agreed to approve the increase in price.

This double action, with its direct effect on the prices of goods into which steel enters, and its indirect effect on prices of other goods, and the whole broad effect of wage raises accompanied by price increases, was the end of the first battle against inflation. Inflation won. The next battle begins with inflation in an advanced position, with cost of living definitely increased. The increase in cost of living is variously estimated. Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board Marriner S. Eccles estimates it at ten per cent, added to the thirty per cent or so increase that has already taken place. (Stabilization Administrator Bowles "hopes" the new increases will be less.)

This increase is called by President Truman a "bug" in the inflation line, and he optimistically announces resumption of the fight at the new line. Will the new line be held? Will the fight against inflation be won? Will the ten per cent increase in cost of living be the last?

Pattern Set

In announcing the new battle at the new line, Mr. Truman reshuffled his forces and set up a "National Wage Stabilization Board." The function of the new board, as described in President Truman's statement, is oddly worded. Nowhere did Mr. Truman use the phrase "prevent wage raises." He used the words "permit" and "approve." The board is to "approve" any wage increase which is "consistent with the general pattern of wage adjustment established" since the end of the war. This seems to mean that wage increases are to be authorized in industries in which raises have not already taken place, and that these wage raises shall follow the "pattern" of the raises already made. At the same time Mr. Truman announced that wherever wage raises necessitate increases in prices (which is just about everywhere) the increases will be approved.

Will this new policy put an end to wage raises and price increases, to the inflationary spiral? There is a precedent. During the war there was a board with the function of restraining wage raises. But when an aggressive labor leader, Mr. John L. Lewis, demanded raises in the wages of coal miners, and conducted strikes to enforce his demand, he got the wage raise, and with them went increase in the price of coal.

Regardless of President Truman's new policy, labor leaders and unions are as free as before to make new demands for higher wage rates and to strike to enforce their demands. The proof is that new strikes are scheduled or in preparation—a telephone strike this week, a coal strike threatened for next month. The labor leaders and unions can find a partial justification. They say that the ten per cent increase in cost of living about to take place will take away part of the wage raises they have already won.

Nothing in the statutory law affecting wage relations and strikes has been changed. The House has passed a measure, the Case bill. This and other measures are now in the Senate committee on labor and education. That committee is frequently spoken of as a "graveyard" of such measures.

In sum, nothing has been done to what the country has just seen and still sees—demands for wage raises, strikes to enforce the demands, success of the strikes, and ensuing increases in prices.

Quiz For Marylanders

Answer to Question 1:
It is interesting to learn what other think of us. In a survey made in Philadelphia, Wilmington and Washington the "Man on the Street" was asked to name Maryland's finest race course. These out-of-state people gave a thumping vote for Pimlico, where the Maryland Jockey Club conducts its famous quality racing. Pimlico, devoted to high class racing, attracts many patrons from out of state. Quality, it would seem, is still the best reputation builder.

Answer to Question 2:
Not only would it buy your county a modern fire engine—it would buy each county 10 fire engines every year. How? Because the four Maryland Racing Association contribute over one million dollars a year of your state taxes.

Answer to Question 3:
Over 20 states in America have racing, yet it remained for Maryland to conduct "The Greatest Day in American Racing." On Prekness Day, 1945, at Pimlico, was staged one day's racing which included the Prekness, a $50,000 added stake, The Dixie, a $30,000 added stake, The Jennings, a $5,000 added stake, The Pimlico

Girl, 18, Is Advised Not To Pursue Man Who Doesn't Write

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am in love with a boy 17. I am 17½. He has a job that takes him to different places. He came to our town about six months ago, and in October I got introduced to him by my father. I went out with him a couple of times.

In December, he asked me to go steady. Then on January 31, he got orders to move and now he is ninety miles from here. I saw him the day he left, and he said he would write. Well, two weeks have passed, and I have not heard from him. So some girls at the shop said they would go to this place where he is for the weekend with me.

What I want to know is, should I go to see him?

H.J.M.

If ninety miles is not too far for you to go to see this young man, H.J.M., then it's not too far for him to come and see you. See what I mean? Why should you go to spend the weekend where he is? If he wants to see you, he'll come and spend the weekend in your town. And if he doesn't show any signs of wanting to do this, then you ought to have too much self-respect to go running after him.

But if you want a definite answer to your question, then here it is. No. Unhappy Married Life
Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married fourteen years and have four children. Since then, I've had no luck at all. My husband has been disagreeable ever since. He gets drunk and goes where he wants to. He says I won't go with him so he has to go by himself, but I wasn't brought up that way to go around in all kinds of beer parlors.

Three years ago I fell in love with a friend of his. I am pretty sure he is in love with me, too. Will I ever find happiness? I've never been happy since I've been married. Lots of people tell me my husband is having a change of life, but if that's the case, he's been having it ever since I knew him. I can't say anything to him. He snaps me off. He doesn't want me to talk to this man. I don't know what to do next.

UNHAPPY

When you've had an unhappy time of it for so long, it's no wonder you don't know what to do next. But one of the things you'd definitely better not do right now is to continue your friendship with this other man. That can only lead to worse trouble for you while you're still living with your husband.

You don't say whether this second man is married or not. If he is not, and you know he wants to marry you, and you feel such a marriage would bring you the happiness you have never had with your present husband, then it is certainly fair enough for you to consider divorcing your husband and trying to make a new and better life for yourself and your children. But don't try to keep up a friendship with another man until you've definitely made up your mind you want to leave your husband. You can't live two lives at once. You'll have to make a choice between them and then act on it.

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON
(Registered U.S. Patent Office)

BE TRUE

"To thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."
—Shakespeare

Sounds complicated, doesn't it? Vague and puzzling? Yet, there's nothing vague about it. There's one of the simplest creeds for a fine, free way of life that has ever been formulated. What does it mean?

Simply this — it means to be true to yourself — your real self. Not true to the artificial self that other people and varied circumstances have imposed upon you. Not true to the shell you have imposed on yourself by years of prejudice, loneliness, fear, resentment, despair or anger. But true to the real self that has persisted underneath in spite of all outward pressure. . . . true to the impulses that are your natural, honest expression.

I wonder if you know what your natural impulses are. Most of us have acted artificially for so long, trimming our conduct to suit conditions, that we actually cease to know our real desires. For example — unless you are a badly warped person, here are some of your honest reactions.

You don't really want to lie. Lies spring from fear. You learned to lie because you were afraid someone would hurt you or get the best of you. But you don't naturally want to be a liar. You feel infinitely cleaner and braver when you are telling the truth.

You don't really want to hurt anyone. Cruelty is not a part of your normal nature. We become cruel partly from fear — often because we want to gain a little power which we feel we lack. So we go about gaining it ruthlessly.

But primarily we don't want to hurt anyone. Hurting belongs to beasts and mentally dented people. Nor do you want to boast and bully. Boasting and bullying spring from that same hunger for power. There is something wrong in that hunger in itself but there is often much wrong in how we go about getting it. Boasters and bullies are not pleasant people. You feel like a fool when you find yourself playing their game. Naturally, you'd like to be a quiet, fairly modest person, admired for your real worth and not for your show-off tactics.

So the list might go on endlessly. But wise Shakespeare knew that, beneath our silly, selfish surface, we humans are fairly decent. He knew that a normal man wants a fine character as naturally as he wants good food and clothes. And so he said—

"TO THINE OWN SELF BE TRUE AND IT MUST FOLLOW, AS THE NIGHT THE DAY, THOU CANST NOT THEN BE FALSE TO ANY MAN."

There was no vague, metaphysical meaning about that statement. In simple modern Americanese, he was saying—

Snap out of it! Be yourself, pal! Cut out all this pretense. Stop putting your faith in lies and threats and mouthy conceit. Who do you think you're fooling anyway? Sooner or later the world will know that for what you are down to the last secret cranny in your character. So you're not kidding anybody. Then why not try a new program? Cut out the smartypants act and be the self you really like to be. . . . the self you really admire. G'wan, take a chance on it. It'll work. Truth al-

Here are the things you want in a GOOD JOB

If you sat down and made a list of all the advantages you'd like to find in a job, you'd wind up with something very close to what the Regular Army offers you right now. If you've never thought of an Army job that way, check over these points:

- 1. GOOD PAY
Most of your Army pay is clear savings. Food, shelter, clothes, medical and dental care are all provided. Insurance, amusements and other incidentals cost far less. You're way ahead of the average civilian.
- 2. TRAINING
It takes first-class technical training to handle the Army's modern equipment. That's why you get thorough instruction in one or more of 200 skills. The best trade schools in the world fit you for a future career.
- 3. TRAVEL
If you join for 3 years you can choose not only the overseas theater to which you wish to go, but also your arm or branch of service.
- 4. STEADY WORK
There's no uncertainty about your Army job. No lay-offs. You work eleven months a year and get twelve months' pay, with a 30-day paid vacation every year.
- 5. ADVANCEMENT
The new Army needs a high percentage of technical experts. If you have the ability, you can earn quick promotion to higher grades, with more pay. And there's always an opportunity for qualified men to become candidates for officers' training.
- 6. CARE OF DEPENDENTS
The Army pays liberal family allowances for dependents of men who enlist before July 1, 1946. Army service need not interfere with a happy married life.
- 7. THE FUTURE
Every young man who joins the Army before October 6, 1946, is entitled, under the GI Bill of Rights, to further education after discharge. After a 3-year enlistment, for example, you can have a full course in college, trade or business school, with tuition up to $500 per ordinary school year paid by the Government, as well as $65 a month for living expenses — $90 a month if you are married.
- 8. SECURITY
If you choose to stay in the Army, you can retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service, and so on up to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. As a civilian you would have to pay $84 a month for annuities to provide such a retirement fund.
- 9. START NOW
You can take this job immediately if you are 17 to 34 years of age, and physically and mentally fit. Enlistments may be for 1½, 2 or 3 years. Find out more about one of the world's best jobs from your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station today!

County Council of P-TA Will Bring "Aladdin" Here

Children's Theater Group To Give Six Performances April 1, 2 and 3

When the Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher Association brings the Clare Tree Major Children's Theater production, "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," to Allegany county, April 1, 2 and 3, it will take the children on a flying visit to old China. Now that so many fathers, uncles and brothers of the children are returning from service in the orient and bringing tales of all they've seen there, the council feels that "Aladdin" should have a special appeal now.

This year a committee of the council will be in charge of arrangements, instead of having only one chairman. It includes Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein, assisted by Mrs. Edward Wilson, in charge of the production for Cumberland; Mrs. Franklin Martin, Froburg, chairman; and Mrs. Arthur Umstut, Westernport, chairman. Miss Ruby Adams is chairman of Publicity.

The first presentation will be held in Cumberland at Fort Hill high school, April 1. There will be two showings one at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and the second at 12:45. April 2, Aladdin will be given at Bruce high school, Westernport, at 9:30 in the morning and at Central high school, Lonaconing, at 1:30; the final showings will be given at Beall high school, Frostburg, April 3, one at 9:30 in the morning and the last at 1:30 in the afternoon.

Speaking of the Clare Tree Major play, Miss Adams said, "The homecoming soldiers will have no stories of such beautiful garments as those worn in Aladdin. These are reproductions of medieval costumes, of rich brocades and satins, with towering headresses and fabulous jewels. Garments like these are never seen now, except on such occasions as a wedding, when the bride still wears the traditional red silk robe and tasseled headpiece, often, as here the wedding dresses

County Council of P-TA Will Bring "Aladdin" Here

Children's Theater Group To Give Six Performances April 1, 2 and 3

When the Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher Association brings the Clare Tree Major Children's Theater production, "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," to Allegany county, April 1, 2 and 3, it will take the children on a flying visit to old China. Now that so many fathers, uncles and brothers of the children are returning from service in the orient and bringing tales of all they've seen there, the council feels that "Aladdin" should have a special appeal now.

This year a committee of the council will be in charge of arrangements, instead of having only one chairman. It includes Mrs. A. M. Lichtenstein, assisted by Mrs. Edward Wilson, in charge of the production for Cumberland; Mrs. Franklin Martin, Frostburg, chairman; and Mrs. Arthur Umstot, Westernport, chairman. Miss Ruby Adams is chairman of publicity.

The first presentation will be held in Cumberland at Port Hill high school, April 1. There will be two showings one at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and the second at 12:45. April 2, Aladdin will be given at Bruce high school, Westernport, at 9:30 in the morning and at Central high school, Lonaconing, at 1:30; the final showings will be given at Beall high school, Frostburg, April 3, one at 9:30 in the morning and the last at 1:30 in the afternoon.

Speaking of the Clare Tree Major play, Miss Adams said, "The homecoming soldiers will have no stories of such beautiful garments as those worn in Aladdin. These are reproductions of medieval costumes of rich brocades and satins, with towering headdresses and fabulous jewels. Garments like these are never seen now, except on such occasions as a wedding, when the bride still wears the traditional red silk robe and tasseled headdress, often, as here the wedding dresses

HAPPY MAN IS FREED FROM HARSH LAXATIVES

Suffers for 25 Years Before Discovering Famous Cereal

Do you suffer from constipation? Then read this sincere, unsolicited letter:

"I suffered from constipation for 25 years. Then a friend told me about Kellogg's All-Brans. I began eating it every day. Now I have natural bowel movements regularly. ALL-BRAN sure is wonderful." William H. Budd, 1681 Cleveland Avenue, Columbus 2, Ohio.

You, too, may never have to take another harsh laxative for constipation due to lack of bulk in your diet—if you eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. If after ten days you are not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Michigan. You will get double your money back! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's a naturally laxative food providing gentle bulk helpful to normal laxation. Eat All-Brans every day as a delicious cereal—or in muffins.

Theodore Marburg Dies at Vancouver

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP)—Death has ended the career of Theodore Marburg, 82, writer, scholar and diplomat who worked for thirty years to promote the cause of international peace.

The Baltimorean's family was notified by a relative that Marburg had died suddenly last night at Vancouver, British Columbia, where he had gone about two weeks ago.

A telegram from a cousin, Charles J. Loewen, Vancouver, informed the family of Marburg's death but gave no details.

Marburg, whose family came originally from the town of Marburg, in Hesse-Nassau, Germany, was United States minister to Belgium from 1912 to 1914. He left before the outbreak of the First World War.

His appointment to the diplomatic post was made by the late President Taft, whom he counted among his personal friends.

Marburg, who was born in Baltimore, was noted for his ability to bring FAST relief that LASTS FOR HOURS in COUGHS from CHEST COLDS.

At the first sign of a chest cold—rub Musterole on the chest, throat and back. Musterole immediately starts right in to relieve coughs, sore throat and tight muscular soreness. It actually helps break up painful local congestion.

Musterole offers all the advantages of a warming, stimulating mustard plaster yet is so much easier to apply. No fuss. No muss. Just rub it on for prompt relief. In 3 strengths. All drugstores.

I am appealing for your support of my candidacy for City Councilman. I have no past record to offer you to judge me by as a public officer. The only thing I can say, if elected I will at all times work for the best interests of the taxpayers and citizens of our city. That is all I can truthfully promise.

Promises are so easily made before the election and so easily broken after the election, so my friends, the above promise I know I can and will keep.

Kempton Mine Uses Acid-Resisting Pipe

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 4 (AP) —

A recently installed rubber-lined steel pipe for carrying acidic mine waters was described today by the Maryland Bureau of Mines as "an important improvement in piping operations."

The bureau said the column pipe was installed in the main hoisting shaft of the Kempton No. 42 mine of the Davis Coal and Coke Company, Kempton, Md.

The bureau asserted, "One of the great troubles with coal mining in Western Maryland has been the tendency of the acid mine waters to eat up the metal of the pumps and pipes. The water, passing through pumps and pipes, deposits a scale which corrodes the pipes and ultimately in some instances stops the flow of water altogether."

The new pipe, the bureau said was installed several months ago and the vulcanized rubber lining is "apparently" preventing corrosion of the pipe interior.

Kempton Mine Uses Acid-Resisting Pipe

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 4 (AP) — A recently installed rubber-lined steel pipe for carrying acidic mine waters was described today by the Maryland Bureau of Mines as "an important improvement in piping operations."

The bureau said the column pipe was installed in the main hoisting shaft of the Kempton No. 42 mine of the Davis Coal and Coke Company, Kempton, Md.

The bureau asserted, "One of the great troubles with coal mining in Western Maryland has been the tendency of the acid mine waters to eat up the metal of the pumps and pipes. The water, passing through pumps and pipes, deposits a scale which corrodes the pipes and ultimately in some instances, stops the flow of water altogether."

The new pipe, the bureau said, was installed several months ago and the vulcanized rubber lining is "apparently" preventing corrosion of the pipe interior.

Schools Will Hold Commencements On May 30, 31

Dates Are Set at Meeting of Principals and Superintendent

Commencement dates in Allegany county public schools were set for May 30-31 at an all-afternoon meeting of principals in the office of Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, yesterday.

The school principals took up a number of matters at yesterday's session after remarks by the superintendent regarding present aims and objectives of the school system.

Among the matters discussed were: policy regarding who can attend school dances, attendance and tardiness, care of school property, scholarship, information on substitutes' training, teacher morale, teachers' certificates and methods for renewal, postwar adjustments in the curriculum with emphasis on physics, senior mathematics and accelerated programs.

Another subject discussed at length was adaptations to returned veterans needs and the present visual education program. On the latter subject, the school men considered the present status of the program in regard to available equipment and methods of using films and the possible extension of the visual education program.

Earlier, Superintendent Kopp, had stated that he is of the opinion that schools eventually will receive surplus government property equipment and would extend the possibilities of the present visual possibilities program.

High prices, scarcity of consumer goods, and small buying power of wages now combine to give Italian laborers little incentive to work.

Residents Oppose Water Tank Site

Protest over Location Is Filed with Mayor and Council

Park street residents yesterday filed with the mayor and city council a protest against erection of a water tank by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Park street.

The protest was submitted by Harold E. Naughton, attorney for Park street residents, who said they have no objection to construction of the tank near Harrison street.

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, said the railroad favors the Park street location because of plans to increase parking space at Queen City station.

Le. James C. McGee, 1023 Shade's lane, presented a petition to the council asking that the street be hard surfaced. The city officials agreed to have the engineer make a survey and report as soon as possible.

James A. Kuhlman reported on the poor condition of Warwick avenue, and was told by Mayor Thomas S. Post that improvements are planned in connection with plans for Memorial Hospital.

City Gets Lot
The council accepted a deed from Flora W. Bauer and Albert Aberle for a half-acre lot on Maryland avenue.

Commissioner William E. McDonald said the couple no longer desires to pay taxes on the useless property and that if the city permits taxes to pile up it will be more expensive than taking over the land now.

The council agreed to a request of the "Cumberland Council" of Church Women to have Friday proclaimed as World Day of Prayer in Cumberland.

Babb Motor Sales was granted a license to sell second hand cars at 22 Winnow street.

An application from Howard E. Gilpin, 135 Virginia avenue, for the position of caretaker at Fort Hill reservoir was referred to the Water Department.

Pay For Concerts
February receipts were reported as follows: Collector's office, $39.30; of which $20.09 was for water; general licenses, $103.50; movie taxes, $1,285.90; Lake Gordon, $346.75; weights, $383.24; engine office, $169.20; fines, $698; and water office, $47.50.

The council ordered $200 paid to Cumberland Lodge, No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, for band concerts given during the summer.

Water consumption for the week ending yesterday was 81,750,000 gallons. The daily average was 11,919,000 gallons as compared to 11,191,000 for the same period last year. Lake Gordon is five inches above the crest and Lake Koon three inches above.

John T. Kesler Named Vocational Officer For Local VA Office

John T. Kesler, 223 Union street, has been appointed vocational advisor to the Veterans Administration Contact Unit here, according to William L. Limburg, manager of the Baltimore Regional VA office.

Kesler recently returned here after three and a half years service in the office of strategic services overseas. He was a non-commissioned officer pilot, and handled cargo and guerrilla personnel to the forces operating behind Japanese lines in the China, Burma, India theater, flying mostly in Burma.

He was awarded the distinguished flying cross on January 21, 1946, by Col. H. Donnelly, for his work during the war.

Formerly employed in the local branch of Montgomery Ward company, Kesler is a graduate of LaSalle Institute, class of 1936. His son, John M. Kesler, aged eight, attends St. Patrick's school. His wife was the former Miss Charlotte Marvin.

Kesler's assignment here is effective at once and he will work in the Veterans Administration office, Union street building, with William A. Burns, who activated the local contact units in May 1945.

Limburg said last night that Kesler will be in the local office temporarily, unless it is decided that a full-time vocational advisor is needed here.

Veteran and His Wife Jailed for Non-Support Of Seven Children

Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell, Ridgeley, yesterday committed a former serviceman and his wife to the Mineral county Jail, Keyser, W. Va., on charges of non-support of their seven children who are being cared for in the Burlington Orphanage at Burlington, W. Va.

Jewell said that the husband, Earl C. Ross, of Laing avenue, this city, was formerly in the service, that the wife was sentenced to 60 days in jail several months ago and the children placed in the orphanage.

When arraigned this morning, Jewell ordered the husband to pay $70 a month and the wife $30 a month for the support of the children. They were jailed when they failed to post $300 bonds each.

The charge was preferred by Mrs. Mary Gano, Martinsburg, who has charge of juvenile cases in seven West Virginia counties. The husband was still in the service when his wife was sentenced for contributing to the delinquency of her children, Jewell said. Ross was arrested here Saturday by police on a warrant.

Brewery Workers Are Furloughed

A federal order for breweries to cut production by thirty per cent effective March 1, has caused some furloughs of local brewery workers. It was stated yesterday.

Fifteen employees have been furloughed from the Queen City Brewing Company plant, and it is expected more may be laid off within the next few weeks. Officials of Cumberland Brewing company have not commented on the situation, but since the government's order applies to all breweries, it is believed the same situation exists there.

Under the Department of Agriculture order, breweries must not produce more than 70 per cent of their 1945 output, in order to make more grain available for shipment to war-ravaged countries abroad. The order also specifies that six per cent of all 32 beer must be set aside for the armed forces, instead of the five per cent previously allocated for that purpose.

One brewery official here pointed out that all beer produced here has the 32 alcoholic content and that during World War I the content was cut to 27.5 to provide more grain for people abroad. Production was thus not curtailed, and the quality of the beer was not lessened. Some nationally-advertised beer still is the 27.5 type.

Firemen Extinguish Three Minor Blazes

Both Central and East Side Fire Companies were called to Decatur street yesterday at 2:25 p. m. when an Astor car caught fire. East Side firemen said the blaze was caused by a short circuit.

South End firemen were called to Gleason street yesterday at 2:18 p. m. to extinguish a grass fire. The blaze was under control within twenty-five minutes.

West Side firemen extinguished a grass fire at the intersection of Cumberland and South Johnson street last evening at 8:13 o'clock. Fire fighters said the blaze, on the bank above the Western Maryland Railway tracks, was probably set by youths.

Plans are being developed to build a dam across the Yangtze river in China, which will constitute the world's largest hydro-electric project.

SAVING THREE FROM DEATH IN GIANT SAND-BOX

TRAPPED FOR THREE HOURS with 150 tons of sand in a huge elevated container at a Brooklyn, N. Y. car barn, Alexander Williams (left), 10, is given a drink of water after being rescued. First to aid the boy, and himself trapped, Dispatcher Benjamin Loeb, 40, is shown (right) being lifted from the sand. A third victim, Subway Motorman Robert Dixon, 36, caught while trying to help the others, was the first to be rescued by police and fire emergency squads. The men were unharmed but exhausted; the boy was sent to a hospital.

Woman Asks That Her Marriage Be Annulled

Mrs. Edith Jones Plummer didn't discover that she was already related to the man she married until after the ceremony, she said yesterday in a petition filed in circuit court in which she asked that the marriage be annulled or that she be granted an absolute decree from William P. Plummer.

Her attorney, Edward J. Ryan, said they were married in 1944 in Frostburg and lived together until last month when Mrs. Plummer discovered that she had married her "second cousin" by mistake. Under Maryland law, persons who are related cannot obtain marriage licenses.

James A. Cessna, a former army man, yesterday filed for an absolute decree and the permanent custody of a child from Mrs. Ethel V. Cessna. According to the petition docketed by E. M. Horcher, they were married in 1941 and separated in 1946. The one child born of the marriage is five years old.

Irvin A. Lewis, also represented by Ryan, filed suit for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Clara V. Lewis. He said they were married June 28, 1935, in Keyser, W. Va., and lived together until September 8, 1944.

Asks For Daughter
Asking for the custody of his three-year-old daughter, Robert D. Mock, of Cumberland, filed suit for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Wanda K. Mock, of Baltimore. His attorney, Julius E. Schindler, said they were married March 19, 1941, in Hagerstown and lived together until last September 20.

Ellis E. Twigg asks for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Mary Ann Seiders Twigg. His counsel, Ryan, said they were married November 2, 1939, in Winchester, Va., and separated July 2, 1943.

Mrs. Thelma Martin Robinson, of Cumberland, filed suit for a divorce from Orval Robinson, a local garage employee, and also asks for the custody of a daughter, aged four, and a son, aged 11. ## Selected Stocks Make Late Rally But Closing Trends Are Well Mixed

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Late buying brought recovery to selected stocks in today's stock market although many leaders were unable to shake off earlier losses running to three or more points.

Deals were listless from the start and little activity developed on the comeback which eventuated in the final half hour. Closing trends were well mixed. Transfers of 960,000 shares compared with 820,000 Friday which were the second smallest for a full stretch since last August.

Among favorites, Schenley was up three and three-fourths and American Woolens three and one-eighth. Lesser gainers were Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Distillers Corporation, National Distillers, Chrysler, United States Rubber, Sante Fe New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Woolworth, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, North American, General Motors, Consolidated Edison, Westinghouse, Philip Morris and Caterpillar Tractor.

Eastman Kodak dropped four and one-half points. Down fractions to one or so were United States Steel, Better Curb performers were E. W. Bliss and Northrop Aircraft. Lower were Alcon, Creole Petroleum, Glen Alden Coal and Raytheon. The aggregate here was 470,000 shares versus 380,000 in the preceding full session.

Shifting price trends prevailed in the bond market. At the finish gains and losses ranging to an outside of a point or so were fairly evenly matched.

Turnover contracted to $3,740,000, lowest for a full session since September 17 last year and compared with $4,370,000 Friday.

In over-the-counter dealings United States government bonds receded as much as one-eighth point in quiet dealings. In the stock market losses of as much as fourteen-thirty-seconds predominated but the list was spotted with a few gains.

Veteran Is Held As Baby's Slayer

PHILADELPHIA, March 4 (AP)—A slender, brown-eyed mother whose infant son, Dennis Michael Emmil, was choked and beaten to death, said today her husband, imprisoned on a homicide charge, twice refused offers from relatives who wanted to adopt the baby.

"He was better to this child than he was to his own baby," Mrs. Fern Mary Emmil, 21, said of her husband John Emmil, Jr., 25, held without bail for action by a coroner's jury.

Mrs. Emmil, who testified at a hearing yesterday that her husband was not the father of 3-months-old Dennis, said Emmil was the father of her 3-year-old son.

The woman showed little emotion when Detective Thomas Blong related an account of the slaying at the hearing. Blong said Emmil told him he strangled the child and then beat his head three times against a table.

Blong said Emmil admitted that he and his wife had argued continually since his return from nearly three years military service.

"All I know is that I never want to see him again," Mrs. Emmil told Newsmen. "I could never forgive him for what he did."

LEFTIST "WORKING MEN" ARE UN'S NURSEMAIDS

TRYGVE LIE
By HELEN CAMP

AP Newsfeatures

LONDON—Men from many lands and of diverse character, but with a common purpose and determination, are leading the United Nations through the critical, formative period of their organization.

Selection of stock, energetic Trygve Lie (pronounced Trigva Lee) as secretary-general has kept the group of international diplomats a "working man's" organization and made Amos, an unusual leftist—or at least, liberal-leaning among the leaders.

Lie, a Norwegian labor lawyer and son of a carpenter, knows the people's problems from sharing as well as studying them. Politically a Laborite, he was the Norwegian Foreign Minister in exile during the German occupation of his homeland. He works hard and has a knack of inspiring others to do the same.

Another representative of this group, Paul Henri Spaak, president of the first assembly, is known as the "Churchill of Belgium" because of his brilliant oratory and his physical resemblance to Britain's war leader, Spaak, a Socialist, has been Belgium's Foreign Minister since 1939.

The vice-presidencies of the United Nations Organization belong to countries rather than to individuals. They are held by the acting heads of the big five delegations, plus Venezuela and South Africa.

This has resulted in Britain's leadership being divided between the quiet Oxonian Prime Minister Attlee, nominal head of the delegation, and the robust, hard-working Ernest Bevin, both Socialists.

With the return of the American political veteran, James F. Byrnes, to Washington, the vice presidential responsibilities for the United States have fallen on Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., the former steel executive who entered government service during the New Deal.

Stettinius, who likes things to move swiftly and is impatient of details, has brought a business man's approach to the international conferences all the way from Dumbarton Oaks to London.

Andrei Vishinsky, white haired and 62 years old, who is the head of the Russian delegation, reached fame as the public prosecutor at the Moscow "purge trials." He looks a little like a harassed schoolmaster with his horn-rimmed spectacles and rosy face. Long a high ranking Communist, he is slated, according to current rumors, to succeed Molotov as Soviet Foreign Commissar.

Vishinsky's second in command, Andrei Gromyko, Soviet ambassador to Washington, is one of the youngest high Russian diplomats.

France's Georges Bidault gained political prominence through his work as first president of the French National Resistance Council. Short, young and sprightly, he is the leader of the new left wing of the Catholic Democratic party and a former popular college professor.

Basketball Fans Storm Madison Square Garden For Tourney Tickets

NEW YORK, March 4. (AP)—Basketball fans stormed Madison Square Garden in such numbers for tickets to the National Invitation tournament today that Fifth street was closed to vehicular traffic and extra mounted police had to be called to keep the throng orderly.

The tickets window didn't open until 9 a. m. but at 5 a. m. some of the would-be purchasers already were in line. During the day nine men were arrested and police said they would be charged with ticket speculation later.

Garden officials estimated that 10,000 tickets were sold in the first four hours. The tourney is scheduled for March 14, 16, 18 and 20 with Kentucky, Bowling Green, Ohio; Muhlenberg, St. John's, of Brooklyn; Syracuse and West Virginia already picked for the eight-team field. Arizona, Rhode Island, North Carolina, Louisiana State and Duke have been mentioned for the two remaining spots.

Shortstop Bill Jurgens is the oldest player with the Boston Braves. He will be 37 on May 9. He batted .324 in 61 games with the Giants last season.

Negro Athletes Report to Farm Club of Dodgers

Jackie Robinson and John Wright Take Part in Workout

By JACK HAND
SANFORD, Fla., March 4. (AP)—Baseball broke a precedent of long standing today when Shortstop Jackie Robinson and Pitcher John Wright, two negro athletes reported for spring training with the Montreal Royals, Brooklyn's farm club in the International League.

Before an uninterested gathering of seven spectators, Robinson and Wright, wearing through the routine practice motions in a drill that failed to create as much excitement as a daily battle between the "Blues" and the "Greys" at Riskey university.

The two athletes reported to Bob Finck, assistant to President Branch Rickey, Robinson greeted Finck with a smile as he said, "Well, this is it."

In the absence of Manager Clay Hopper, who was in Daytona Beach with a special squad to play the parent Dodgers, Robinson and Wright directed Robinson to take his turn with the other hitters facing the mechanical pitcher. He met some pitches squarely but was so busy answering reporters and posing for photographers that he had little time for a real workout.

Wright threw to the hitters for a short time, cutting loose with a good curve ball.

"I don't know how our league (the Negro American League) in which he played last year compares with this league," said Robinson, former football basketball and baseball star at UCLA. He is personable, 27, married only three weeks ago and realizes full well the problems he may have to face.

Both Robinson and Wright are ex-servicemen.

Boudreau Steps Up Tribe Batting Practice
CLEANWATER, Fla., March 4. (AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau stepped up batting practice for his Cleveland Indians today after yesterday's intra-squad game was marred by weak hitting.

The squad already has had more emphasis on stickwork than in any previous training camp, but the practice game caused Boudreau to call for additional stress in this department.

Taylor Wins Decision
NEW YORK, March 5. (AP)—Chuck Taylor, young Pittsburgh welterweight recently discharged from the army, made it two in a row over Freddy Archer by gaining an unanimous decision over the Newark, N. J., veteran in the feature ten-round bout at the Richfield arena tonight. Taylor weighed 143, one pound less than his rival.

Robinson Soundly Thrashes Angott In Ten-Rounder

Sugar Ray Wins Unanimous Decision; Gate Sets Pittsburgh Record

PITTSBURGH, March 4. (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson soundly thrashed veteran Sammy Angott in a ten-round unanimous decision before a crowd which paid an indoor record of $47,887. Robinson weighed 147, Angott 143. Angott was dropped for one knock in the first and eighth rounds.

The 31-year-old former lightweight boxer said he would retire if he did not win over the hard-punching Robinson looked his best in the second and third rounds, the only ones he won. The Associated Press score sheet called the fourth round even and gave the rest to Sugar Ray.

The gross gate which netted $41,985 represented an all-time high for Pittsburgh's Duquesne Gardens, which were jammed with about 6,500 fans, including standees, some of whom waited in line hours for a chance to enter.

Angott, a gamster who never has been knocked out in a long and illustrious career as a leather pusher, simply was outclassed tonight by his younger, faster opponent who previously had won two split decisions over Samman.

Robinson even outclassed Angott at the stocky veteran's forte—infighting—and when the bout ended Sammy's left side was the color of a prewar flat mignon.

Angott, a rock-chinned, rock-ribbed, rock-hard fighter, enough trouble to capsize a heavyweight, but he kept coming back and at the end had the crowd with him, rooting for him to stay upright against Sugar Ray's broadsides. A joining right hook dumped Sammy for about count in the first and another of the same turned the trick again in the eighth. Angott hung on grimly after the eighth round trip to the resin but his legs were rubbery at the end from three terrific right smashes at his left side.

Angott, back-pedaled when in greatest danger and made Ray miss repeatedly but Robinson was so sure of the result he glowered deadpan through part of the ninth round. The fight was spotty and rather uninteresting from any other angle but that of a popular hometown boy trying to make good against heavy odds.

Godoy and Savold Draw Suspensions
CHICAGO, March 4. (AP)—Arturo Godoy, Chilean heavyweight champion, and Lee Savold, Paterson, N. J., were suspended indefinitely by the Illinois State Athletic Commission today after a hearing on their fight at the Chicago stadium last Friday night which was declared "no contest."

Referee Johnny Behr, after several warnings, stopped the bout, scheduled for ten rounds, soon after the start of the eighth.

The commission, after ordering the fighters' purses paid, said the evidence upheld the action of Referee Behr in declaring the bout "no contest." The contest was honestly fought, the commission ruled, explaining that the styles of the two boxers were such that an unsatisfactory performance resulted.

Godoy will collect $6,906 from the gross gate of $32,046, while Savold will haul down $5,754.

"It is regrettable that the purses cannot be refunded to the purchasers," Sheldon Clark, chairman of the commission commented.

District Scholastic Teams Will Engage In Three Contests
District basketball teams will figure in three scholastic contests tonight at Fort Ashby, Petersburg and Johnston.

Beall high school, of Frostburg, is scheduled to play a return game at Fort Ashby. Coach Fingels' Mountaineers won the first game with the Eagles by the score of 34 to 32 in the Mountain City.

Elk Garden's busy quintet will invade Petersburg to meet the Vikings of Petersburg high school in the final game of their series and the Grant court team is starting to atone for a 34-17 setback suffered on the Elk Garden court.

Southmont high, of Johnston, will play host to Coach Bruce Fishers' Bedford Blons in the final game of their home and home series and the Grant court team is starting to atone for a 34-17 setback suffered on the Elk Garden court.

Philadelphia Managers Are Pleased with Rockies
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 4. (AP)—Manager Ben Chapman today proclaimed Rookie Outfielder Bill Higdon "fastest man on the squad" and signed him to a Philadelphia Phillies baseball contract.

Higdon, who played freshman football at Auburn last year, gave a good account of himself in all-around conditioning drills, which included a session in the sliding pit.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 4. (AP)—Jack Caulfield, the $25,000 rookie shortstop from Oakland, was the sensation of today's drills at the Philadelphia Athletics' spring training camp.

"He looks fine," commented the usually non-committal Manager Connie Mack after watching Caulfield team with Second Baseman Irv Hall in some sparkling double-plays.

Spring Grid Drills Open At Maryland; 59 Report

Shaughnessy Says Double Wingback and "T" Will Be Employed by Terp Footballers

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 4. (AP)—Coach Clark Shaughnessy reported fifty-nine men who participated in the first spring football drill, and told them indoor sessions would continue until the latter part of this week.

Nearly twenty more men—including veterans like Emil Fritz, Bill Poling, Don Gleasner and John Schenck—are expected to draw equipment before the squad takes the field for practical work later on.

Shaughnessy, dwelling almost entirely on theory, said there would be a little heavy work before next fall. He advised the men to follow a training routine this spring, but the drills would be enforced until the team gets down to real business for the playing season.

He warned that things would be a lot tougher this fall because a heavy schedule had been lined up. The schedule has not yet been announced.

Both the double wingback and "T" formations will be employed, with greater use of the "T," Shaughnessy said.

Assistants introduced were Al Woods and Al Heagy, Fred Davis (line), Wilbur Moore (backfield) and Wayne Miller (ends). Davis, Moore, and Miller play for the Washington Redskins, and Woods and Heagy are veterans of the Maryland coaching staff.

Explaining the qualities he required of his men for each "T" formation position, Shaughnessy placed particular emphasis on quarterback prerequisites and said "that is the spot I'll do most of my work with this spring."

Baseball and lacrosse practice also got under way today, with fifty-eight men reporting to Coach Burton Shipley for diamond drill, and thirty-five stickmen turning out for Washington's lacrosse squad.

Only three players returned from last year's baseball team, and two others showed up who had played in 1941 or 1942. The rest were all newcomers—principally ex-servicemen.

Shaughnessy was optimistic about his men predicting Maryland would come close to coping a national title. The Terps were runners-up to Navy in 1942 for the national championship.

Moorefield Wins Over Petersburg
PETERSBURG, W. Va., March 4. (AP)—The Moorefield High Yellow Jackets turned back the Petersburg High Vikings, 44-38, in a Potomac Valley Conference game here tonight. The tussle had been scheduled earlier in the season but was postponed.

The Jackets, paced by Smith's fourteen points, held a 28-18 advantage at the half. Kuykendall and Smith each had four baskets for Petersburg.

The Vikings will close their regular season tomorrow night by entertaining Elk Garden high.

In tonight's preliminary, the Moorefield girls topped the Petersburg Lassies, 11-8. The boys' lineups:

Negro Boxer Dies Of Ring Injuries
By GIB STALEY
PHILADELPHIA, March 4. (AP)—Nat Hines, 24-year-old Philadelphia negro light-heavyweight boxer, died of ring injuries today.

Hines was knocked out in the two and final round of his bout here Friday night with Billy Eck, Allentown, Pa.

The negro was the second boxer to die of ring injuries in two days. Dixon, Walker, 20-year-old University of Maryland freshman, died yesterday at Washington, O., a native of Cincinnati, O., was knocked out Saturday night in the first round of his bout with Gus Gersin, Catholic university.

"Hines' death was extremely unfortunate but he passed a very thorough physical examination before he went into the ring," said Leon Raines, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission. Raines said, however, that a brain operation performed on Hines revealed that the negro had suffered a prior brain hemorrhage—"perhaps two weeks or more before Friday night's bout."

Chief Deputy Coroner Matthew A. Roth said an inquest will be held "in five to ten days." He said he expected Eck "to make himself available."

Raines said Hines was the fourth Pennsylvania boxer to die of ring injuries in the past fifteen years.

Sheppard Stops Henry in Ninth
BALTIMORE, March 4. (AP)—Curly (The Hatchetman) Sheppard, Philadelphia, won by a technical knockout tonight over Yancey Henry, the ninth round of a scheduled ten-round bout, and the Washington, D. C., negro was taken to Provident hospital for examination.

Henry, who was saved by the bell in the eighth after taking terrific body punches which toppled him to the canvas as he went to his corner, fell face forward as he came out for the ninth round.

After twenty minutes work by handlers and a physician, Henry was led to his dressing room, where it was decided to take him to a hospital for examination.

He fought a losing battle throughout, was knocked down in the third and came up to take an eight count on one knee. Sheppard put Henry down again in the fourth frame when the bell halted the referee's count at three.

Sheppard weighed 187½, Henry 193½. A crowd of 2,888 witnessed the bout, with the gross receipts at $7,401.50.

Chaney Scores Upset
WASHINGTON 24. (AP)—Colin Chaney, 184 Indianapolis, scored an upset by outpointing Al Hooman, 196, New York city, in a ten-round fight tonight.

Chaney, a 1-6 underdog, took the first six rounds. Hooman got the last three, with the seventh round. The shorter Chaney ducked under Hooman's long left continually to score with body punches before clinching.

By CHARLES ARMENTROUT
BUCKHANNON, W. Va., March 4. (AP)—The role of prime favorite failed to bother Aderson-Broadus college tonight and Concord felt the defeat, 74 to 51, as the Battlers won their first game in the ninth West Virginia Collegiate basketball tournament.

Morris Harvey scrambled into the victory column in the last thirty seconds of the session's second game as Jim Davis, lanky substitute, sank a free throw shot to give the Charleston team a 46 to 45 verdict over Potomac State.

In the afternoon first round contest Potomac State turned back Bethany 62 to 50, and Wesleyan eliminated West Virginia Tech 58 to 47.

The semi-finals are slated for Wednesday and the championship finals that night.

Advance notices on Darl Wilmoth, Points Pelaez and all the other A-B Battlers were not exaggerated. It was the evening crowd of about 900 a smooth performance of ball handling and shooting.

Wilmoth started the scoring with a free throw, Pelaez came in with one of his unorthodox leap-frog shots, and from there on A-B was off in front, never to be overcome.

At the half A-B was ahead 38 to 21. Wilmoth hit for a total of 26 points, 10 of them field goals. Pelaez was right behind with 22. Jimmy White, of Athens, Concord's outstanding floor performer tonight, capped 19.

Potomac State Surprises
The surprising Potomac State team went along on even terms with Morris Harvey in the early stages and tied the score 25-25 at the half. In contrast to predictions of an out and out mauling, Potomac was still in there 39-39 at the end of the third quarter.

Starting the fourth period, Potomac's captain, Harry Davis, of Keyser, boosted the Eastern Panhandle team to a 45 to 41 lead with only two minutes left.

Bobby Reese goaled under the basket to make it 45-43, and Curtis Williams sank a long one to tie it up 45-45. Lloyd Montgomery, fouled out, sank the second of his two shots to provide the one-point victory just as time ran out.

The 33-year-old Avon, N. Y., backstop reported today that the sacroiliac ailment which sent him to the sidelines late last season seemed greatly improved during his first workout. He is continuing on the southern sunshine after three training seasons up north to help him in his bid for the first string job.

Starting the fourth period, Potomac's captain, Harry Davis, of Keyser, boosted the Eastern Panhandle team to a 45 to 41 lead with only two minutes left.

Bobby Reese goaled under the basket to make it 45-43, and Curtis Williams sank a long one to tie it up 45-45. Lloyd Montgomery, fouled out, sank the second of his two shots to provide the one-point victory just as time ran out.

O'Dea May Rehome Cards' No. 1 Catcher
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4. (AP)—Ken (Pappy) O'Dea who has done a lot of catching around the National League the last ten years as second-stringer to some of the game's great backstops, may finally find himself the No. 1 man in the mask for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The 33-year-old Avon, N. Y., backstop reported today that the sacroiliac ailment which sent him to the sidelines late last season seemed greatly improved during his first workout. He is continuing on the southern sunshine after three training seasons up north to help him in his bid for the first string job.

Trainer Is Suspended
HIALEAH, Fla., March 4. (AP)—Clyde D. Toothman, trainer, today was suspended by the Hialeah park stewards, charged with "actions detrimental to the best interests of racing." Ex-Heavyweight Champ Will Serve Four to Six Years at Reported $50,000 Salary

HENRY ARMSTRONG, called "Homicide Hank" by sports writers, is commonly referred to as the former triple champion, meaning that he held three boxing championships.

But the fact that he was holder of three titles is not Henry's distinction. The thing that makes him unique is that he held them all at once.

Bob Fitzsimmons was a triple champion long before Armstrong was born. Fitzsimmons won the middleweight title, then knocked out James J. Corbett for the heavyweight crown, having outgrown the middleweight division. After he lost the heavyweight championship to Jim Jeffries, Fitz went after the light heavyweight title. He beat George Gardner for it in 1903, when he was 41 years old. Bob fought on through 1914. He was boxing's "grand old man."

When Henry Armstrong beat Lou Ambers for the lightweight title in 1938, he also held the featherweight and welterweight championships. He had them all at once, while Fitz knocked his off one by one.

Fair Grounds Meet Will Close Today
NEW ORLEANS, March 4. (AP)—Fifteen evenly-matched 3-year-olds were named today for the $15,000 Louisiana derby, feature of the Mardi Gras day program tomorrow which will wind up horse racing at the Fair Grounds for the winter.

There is no outstanding favorite, but several of the best racers seen here this season will race in the mile and a furlong stake.

Air Race, owned by Fred Wyse, Houston, Tex., and trained by Ralph Lentini, New Orleans is top weighted at 123 pounds.

The Wyse co-bearer is headed among such leaders as H. P. Headley's Pellicle, shipped here from Florida; Dixiana's Topnotch, and William Hein's champion filly Earshot, the latter of which has won four races straight here.

The Louisiana derby, which replaces the usual Mardi Gras handicaps, completes the scheduled seventy-five-day meet in seventy-one days. Julius G. Reeder, racing secretary and general manager of the Fair Grounds Corporation, said today.

Although Atkins would not explain the third phase of the committee's duties, it was immediately interpreted as aimed at Mike Jacobs, New York promoter.

Rinehart To Head Hagerstown Fair

Eldred Rinehart was elected president of the Hagerstown Fair Association at the annual election Saturday, which resulted in the largest vote in the association's history. Rinehart was unopposed.

An entire new slate of officers was elected, with Roger C. Hershey named vice president; Charles E. Cushman, recording secretary; Clyde R. Stouffer, corresponding secretary; Dr. Robert C. Snively, treasurer; Directors are Walter Cunningham, Simon L. Downey, Charles W. Hoffman, Charles W. Huyett, William Preston Lane, Jr., Leonard P. Mathias, Edward Oswald, J. Richard Rauth and Dr. Snively.

The election was scheduled for January, but was postponed until March 2 by Chief Judge William A. Huster, in Circuit Court here, after one group of stockholders filed a petition accusing another group of attempting to seize control of the association through illegal transfers of shares. An agreement was reached last week between the opposing groups, at a hearing before Chief Judge Huster in Hagerstown.

It had been feared that the litigation might prevent the holding of the annual race there, but this was dissolved when the groups agreed to have the election Saturday.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy, and for the beautiful floral offerings tendered during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Durbin J. Kockert. The care loaned for the funeral was also greatly appreciated.
MRS. OROHA KOCKERT AND FAMILY.
3-5-11-NT

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Frank DeLuna, who died 5 years ago today, March 5, 1941.

Some may think we are not lonely, that times the time to smile. But little do they know the heartache we suffer all the while.

Your gentle face and loving smile with sadness we recall. You had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.

Flowers we place upon your grave, will wither and decay. But love for you who sleeps beneath will never fade away.

WIFE AND CHILDREN.
3-5-11-NT

In loving memory of our husband and father, Frank DeLuna, who died 5 years ago today, March 5, 1941.

The chair you sat in, and the place you filled, still hold your memory, though your voice be still.

And we who knew you, know you still, and share the place you know, who have passed over there.

Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN.
3-5-11-NT

In memory of Margaret Bell Feagles, who passed away four years ago today, March 5, 1942.

In life we loved you dearly. In death we do the same. More and more each day we miss you, friends may think the wound is healed.

Sleep on dear Mother take your rest. God called you home. He knew best. He knew you were suffering and couldn't get well.

So He called you home to Heaven to dwell. Sadly missed by her daughter,
JOSEPHINE SHANKS AND
GRANDSON, BILL FEAGLES, R. 3-C

Red Cross Needs Must All Be Met, Judge Sloan Says

Campaign for $30,500 Started at Annual Kick-off Dinner Here

Veteran campaigners for the American Red Cross who sparked the big year drive were out in force again last night for the annual kick-off dinner inaugurating the 1946 campaign to raise $30,500 to help the "Greatest Mother of Them All" to carry on.

However, it was obvious at last night's dinner at the Central YMCA that this year the veteran workers are looking to the thousands of returned servicemen to give the first peacetime drive since '42 new impetus, enthusiasm and leadership. During the war years, leaders recalled last night, these servicemen wrote home moving stories of the Red Cross in action. Now that they are home, Red Cross leaders feel that these returned men are singularly well-equipped to tell the organization's story and to help boost interest in the Red Cross which is still "in action" in the occupation zones, in the veterans' hospitals and on the home front.

Millholland Heads Campaign

In view of these facts, Red Cross leaders are convinced that Lt. Col. Randolph Millholland is a happy choice to lead this year's drive. Wiry and energetic, Col. Millholland pulled himself up by his bootstraps in the national guard from a private and by the time he had reached England was commanding a battalion of tough, rugged, Rangers on commando raids and later fought his battalion of the One Hundred and Fifteenth Infantry through some of the bitterest action in Europe.

It was somewhat appropriate last night that both Millholland and last year's chairman were both former soldiers. Chief Judge William A. Huster, who led last year's campaign in a drive that netted over $100,000 is a former major in the army. In introducing Lt. Col. Millholland, Chief Judge Huster remarked that last year the workers were commanded by an "ordinary major but this year its going to be different and your mission should be accomplished in a short time."

It was at this point that Lt. Col. Millholland arose and perhaps was speaking for all returned servicemen when he said, "I think you all know how I feel about the Red Cross. It gives me a great deal of pleasure that I can do anything to further the cause of the Red Cross and I take great pleasure in having been appointed this year's chairman."

It remained for D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Maryland court of appeals and the principal speaker of the evening, to warn the workers that now that the "heat is off" to some extent that people with the best intentions may have a tendency to "cool down."

Must Meet Needs
Speaking bluntly, former Judge Sloan said "The Red Cross is made to meet every need that may arise and these needs must be met. The Red Cross must be served and it can only be served by those of you who are here tonight and all other workers in the county."

Referring to Lt. Col. Millholland, former Judge Sloan chuckled, "We're going to get a good job out of him. He's seen valiant service. Why, do you realize that he's received more publicity than anybody else who ever came out of this town?"

Former Judge Sloan reminded the workers that this year's chairman was a fitting exponent of all returned servicemen stating "The Red Cross helped these boys to get back and there's not one of them who doesn't pay tribute to the great job this organization has done."

The speaker then told the workers that while this year's drive might appear somewhat different than the war drives on the surface, the "difference is only one of size and that the needs and necessities of the organization are just as great as they ever were with the reasons for supporting the drive just as valid and sound as they were in time of war."

Former Judge Sloan then stated that there is a possibility that this may be the last Red Cross drive as such and after praising the staggering loads that were carried under the leadership of Judge Huster and Joseph M. Naughton, the speaker, in referring to this year's drive, declared "This town always has measured up to the occasion and it will on this occasion."

Key Leaders Introduced
In expressing his pleasure at leading this year's campaign, Lt. Col. Millholland said that he hoped the public will take cognizance of the fact that "the real workers in a drive of this sort are those who get out and actually do the work."

The chairman then proceeded to introduce some of the key leaders, department heads and committee members present at the dinner. These included: Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, chapter chairman; Henry C. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Plans Are Made To Give Results In City Primary

The News will tabulate the city primary election returns tonight and will carry unofficial returns in tomorrow morning's paper, but returns will not be given over the telephone as the lines must be kept open for obtaining results from the various precincts.

Returns will be posted by pre-prints on the bulletin board at the Times-News building on South Mechanic street. Radio station WTBO will broadcast returns every thirty minutes with the first returns being given at 10:30 p. m. The station will then give returns on the hour and half-hour until the vote is all tabulated. WTBO will not give returns by telephone so please don't call the NEWS or WTBO for returns as they cannot be furnished.

The News requests all election officials to call 4600 as soon as all votes are counted giving the total number of votes cast in the precinct.

17,749 Voters Are Qualified To Vote Today

Registration Figures Show 563 More Voters in City Than in 1944

A total of 17,749 voters are qualified to cast ballots in the biennial primary municipal election today, according to the latest official figures released by Samuel E. Grimmer, city clerk.

It is not known just how many of these voters are now actually residing in Cumberland as many of them are still serving in the armed forces, while others are employed in industrial plants in other cities.

In the registration days last month 951 new voters were placed on the books. The total number of registrants as shown on the books this year is 563 more than the 17,213 who were eligible to vote in the municipal election two years ago.

Ridgeley American Legion Meets Tonight

Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion of Ridgeley, W. Va., will hold an important meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Ridgeley Rod and Gun club, Commander Charles Fair announced last night. Plans will be discussed for raising funds to equip and remodel recently acquired post headquarters, Fair said, and every member should attend.

Arrangements have been completed for the post's public dance to be held in the Rod and Gun club Friday night at 8 o'clock. Music for the dance will be furnished by the Society Ramblers.

Is on Way Home

Platoon Sgt. Charles W. Appel, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Appel, 525 Columbia avenue, Cumberland, is en route home after serving twenty-six months in the India-Burma theater. He is being processed for return to the states.

Chamber of Commerce Delegation Will Attend Hagerstown Meeting

Twenty members of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, including Roy W. Eves, president and Harold W. Smith, secretary, will go to Hagerstown this afternoon, for a national affairs meeting of chamber of commerce executives and members from Western Maryland and nearby sections of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

L. P. Dickie, of Atlanta, Ga., manager of the southeastern division of the chamber of commerce, was here yesterday for a preliminary conference prior to the meeting. He talked with Smith and other members of the Cumberland organization during the afternoon and evening.

Dickie said the purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans, methods and means by which business men through the chamber of commerce, will become more active in national affairs, and "things that are happening in Washington."

The national affairs program of the chamber, Dickie explained, has proven one of interest and importance. In the past fifteen months, over 200 similar meetings have been held in forty-two states. He said there are 1,500 national affairs committees representing local chambers, with a total membership of 15,000 business men. Henry W. Price is chairman of the national affairs committee here.

The meeting this evening will be held in Alexander hotel at Hagerstown, with dinner at 6:30 o'clock. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Prominent Local Business Leader Dies in Hospital

Nathaniel S. Guggenheimer, 52, 718 Washington street, manager of the jewelry department of L. Bernstein Furniture Company here, died last evening about 6 o'clock in Memorial hospital, Lynchburg, Va.

Mr. Guggenheimer had been visiting relatives in Lynchburg since February 18 and was taken to the hospital there suffering from influenza and a throat infection.

He had been affiliated with the L. Bernstein Company for the past eleven years and had been in charge of the store's jewelry department which he inaugurated in the fall of 1943.

Was World War I Vet

Mr. Guggenheimer was a veteran of World War I and served overseas with the infantry for twenty-two months. He was active in the affairs of veterans organizations here including Port Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, the Forty and Eight club and the Twenty-ninth Division Association. During World War II, he was active in Civilian Defense organizations.

The local man was also active in civic affairs and was a member of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, the Cumberland Community Chest and took an active part in National War Fund and American Red Cross drives here.

He was a member of the B.P.O. Elks lodge in Lynchburg. Mr. Guggenheimer was a member of B'er Chayim congregation, B'nai B'rith and participated in the work of the Jewish Community Fund here.

Was Native of Lynchburg

A native of Lynchburg, he was a son of the late Charles and Minnie Guggenheimer, Sr.

He married Miss Madeline B. Bernstein, Cumberland, in this city in 1921.

He was at that time affiliated with the Guggenheimer department store in Lynchburg, and came to this city in 1935 with Mrs. Bernstein shortly after the death of her father, the late Louis Bernstein.

Besides his widow, he is survived by one brother, Max Guggenheimer, Lynchburg, and a sister, Mrs. Bert Nussbaum, Norfolk, Va. No funeral arrangements had been made last evening.

CHARLES SCHAB RITES

Funeral services for Charles A. Schab, 69, retired Pennsylvania Avenue station janitor, who died yesterday morning at his home, 214 1/2 Virginia avenue, will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Stein funeral home. Interment will be in Rose Hill cemetery.

Until his resignation several months ago, he had been chief of records for thirty years of Tonk-aw Tribe No. 120, Improved Order of Red Men. He was also a member of St. John's Lutheran church and of Cumberland Lodge No. 60, Knights of Pythias.

Mr. Schab retired several years ago as janitor of the local school. He was a native of Baltimore.

The pastor, the Rev. H. A. Kester, will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

He was a native of Flintstone, a son of the late Jesse and Mary James, both lifelong residents of the Flintstone district.

Voters To Name City Nominees At Polls Today

Four Persons Are Running for Mayor and Thirteen for Council

Cumberland voters will go to the polls today to nominate two candidates for mayor and eight for council in the city's biennial primary election, from a field of four candidates for mayor and thirteen for council.

The city's twenty polling places, scattered throughout Cumberland, will be open from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m. Voters can vote for only one candidate for mayor and four for council. Ballots which are marked for more than one candidate for mayor and four council candidates will be void and cannot be counted.

Light Vote Anticipated
Indications last night were that a comparatively light vote will be cast today due to the fact that no outstanding issues are involved in the campaign. Several candidates have announced their stand on certain issues and expressed their views in newspaper advertisements and radio broadcasts.

Only two of the present elected officials of the city are seeking reelection to the positions they now hold. They are Mayor Thomas S. Post who is a candidate for mayor, and William J. Edwards, who is running for re-election as members of the council. Two other members of the present council, William E. McDonald and Hunter B. Helfrich are candidates for mayor. The fourth candidate for mayor is Frank J. Davis. James Orr, police and fire commissioner did not seek reelection.

Today's primary will be in charge of Samuel E. Grimmer, city clerk, but the general election two weeks from today will be under the direction of the Allegheny County Board of Election Supervisors.

Registration figures show that 17,749 voters are qualified to cast ballots today, 536 more than were eligible to vote in the primary two years ago. In the 1944 primary only 3,739, or twenty-two per cent of the 17,213 registered voters went to the polls.

List of Candidates

The candidates and their addresses follow:
FOR MAYOR—Frank J. Davis, 613 Maryland avenue; Hunter B. Helfrich, 727 Sylvan avenue; William E. McDonald, 1 Boone street; and Thomas S. Post, 512 Louisiana avenue.

FOR COUNCIL—Cleveland T. Albright, 121 Hanover street; De Lisle E. Chaney, 1130 Bedford street; William J. Edwards, 225 Columbia street; Clifton E. Fuller, 624 Elm street; Gordon B. Griffin, 19 Wempe Drive; H. Frank Hinze, 1907 Bedford street; Luther Hutter, Sr., 810 Shriver avenue; William V. Keegan, 310 Cumberland street; George G. Light, 511 East Prince George street; Frank J. Mackert, 619 Columbia avenue; Joseph R. Manthey, 1306 East Oldtown Road; Richard T. Renshaw, 1819 Bedford street; and John E. ## Army Engineers Give Viaduct Plan Tentative Support

Tentative approval of the proposed cross-town viaduct as it relates to the proposed project for flood protection in Cumberland has been given by the army engineers handling the flood control project.

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Municipal Planning and Zoning commission, said yesterday.

Plans for the viaduct were sent to the army engineers by Whitehead, Reardon and Associates, Baltimore engineers, who prepared them, and the army engineers reviewed the plans with regard to the relationship of a proposed bridge over the creek and other features to the proposed flood control plan.

The army engineers, in a letter to the Baltimore firm in which tentative approval is given, said they noted that the location and design of a viaduct over the creek will require co-ordination with the design of walls and slope paving of flood channel improvements.

Matter of Policy
Col. D. G. White, of the corps of engineers, said that as a matter of policy of the department, it will be necessary to require that every effort be made to provide a waterway without obstruction to flow.

Col. White said the pier as located on the slope on the right side of the creek channel will produce a slight reverse effect on the flow, but, he added, it is understood that some adjustments will be made when final designs are carried out.

It is on that basis, Col. White stated, that tentative approval is given.

He added that whichever construction is started first, proper provision should be made to fit with details of other structures.

The Western Maryland Railway Company also has reviewed the plans for the viaduct and E. C. Shreve, chief engineer, informed (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Enthusiasts Plan Social Tonight

The Enthusiasts club of the Salvation Army will hold its monthly social meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the South Cumberland hotel.

On Wednesday night the Ladies Home Leagues of North and South Cumberland will hold a welcome party in honor of Lt. Garnett Jones who has been assigned here from Baltimore. A native of Clarksville, W. Va., Lt. Jones succeeded Lt. Yvonne Pinder in Cumberland. She will be particularly active in young people's work along with Capt. Hilda Bell. The party Wednesday will begin at 8 p. m.

Frederick Deremer, Cumberland, will preach at the prayer meeting Friday at 8 p. m. at the Citadel, North Mechanic street.

Feed Shortage Termed Critical By County Agent

Situation Is So Grave That Livestock Must Be Liquidated

Dairymen, livestock and poultry feeders of Allegheny county today are facing the most critical feed scarcity in years, County Agent R. F. McHenry said yesterday.

The situation is so grave that stock owners who do not have ample grains on hand are going to have to liquidate livestock, the county agent said.

"The situation is worse now than at any time during the war," McHenry said. "The commercial feed situation is now critical and is apt to get more so during the coming months."

The new government order affecting wheat supplies for feed will seriously handicap feed manufacturers, McHenry said. A base period of December 1945 and January 1946 is used and manufacturers are limited to seventy-five per cent of feed mixed during this base period for February and March.

Mills To Be Limited
In April, mills are to be limited to seventy per cent and in May there is to be another drop to sixty per cent where it will remain until such time as the government sees fit to revise it, McHenry declared.

The order requiring more flour from wheat means that whereas 141 pounds of wheat are normally required to yield 100 pounds of flour the new order requires that it yield 113 pounds of flour. This means that there will be roughly thirteen pounds less mill feed for every 141 pounds of wheat.

In addition, priority on box cars for wheat shipment to terminal ports for export raises the possibility that cars will be tied up for long periods and that the wartime shortage for transportation is apt to be aggravated, McHenry declared.

"All of this suggests that there is just not going to be enough feed to carry the large numbers of livestock and poultry now on farms," McHenry said bluntly yesterday. "Heavy liquidation of meat animals, dairy cattle and poultry appears to be the only solution."

"Allegheny county farmers, unless they have sufficient grain on farms will be forced to cut closely their herds and flocks," McHenry told a reporter. "The earlier this liquidation takes place the better because those who wait until they must sell are apt to find the market flooded and the prices lower than they are now."

'Boarders' Must Go
"This is no time to feed 'boarders,'" McHenry declared. "Inefficient animals and low producers should go to market without delay."

To ease the situation later, McHenry is urging farmers to stimulate hay and pasture production by generous applications of complete fertilizers for grasses and mixed meadows and superphosphate for legumes. These applications should be made as soon as April as it is dry enough to get on the ground with hoses and machines.

Farmers have already protested this liquidation of live stock which they have declared is a direct result of government regulation. Some farmers have stated that eating brown bread is one thing but to actually "run people out of business" due to the liquidation of stock is something else again.

McHenry's warning about delay being dangerous in the matter of liquidating stock apparently is borne out by conditions reported from the Eastern Shore of Maryland where wholesale liquidation of broilers is now in progress. As a result, the market is already glutted, it was reported.

Dangers of Another Depression Expressed By OPA Representatives

Warning against the dangers of another depression, urging care in spending and buying, and citing economic dangers that exist during the reconstruction period since the war, Mrs. Bertha B. Proctor, consumer liaison representative for the Office of Price Administration in Baltimore, addressed about a hundred persons last night at Carver high school, Frederick street.

The meeting was sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association of Carver school, in the interest of consumer co-operation in the campaign against inflation.

Mrs. Proctor told her audience that there is about three times as much ready money in pockets and savings accounts, as there are goods to buy. Consequently, she explained, people become careless about prices, and they spend money on two more and two more for little items. These pennies, she reminded her listeners, amount to thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars in a year's time over the country. It is important, she said, that if inflation is to be checked, people should save but not serve as a safe-guard against possible depression, it is the duty of every consumer to pay not more than selling prices, and to buy only what is actually needed.

An open forum discussion followed the meeting.

Marine Corps League Will Elect Temporary Officers Monday Night

About thirty marines and ex-marines assembled last night in Mechanic's club, incorporated hall, 63 Baltimore street, for the first formal meeting of the newly organized Marine Corps League Detachment.

Herman M. Heller, 716 Elm street, temporary chairman presided. Formal action was taken by the group to call the local detachment the Francis K. Finan Detachment, Marine Corps League, of Cumberland, Maryland.

The group decided unanimously to hold an election of temporary officers and close their charter next Monday night at 8 o'clock. It is hoped to have about fifty charter members by that time. Temporary officers will be chosen, until the charter arrives and is formally presented to the group. Then records will be established on a fiscal year basis, and officers for the first year will be elected.

Members agreed that the charter should be open another week to give more marines further opportunity to become charter members. Heller said decision had also been reached that all marines in the Tri-State area are eligible for membership, and any marine or ex-marine in nearby West Virginia, Pennsylvania and in Garrett or Washington counties, will be just as welcome as marines from Cumberland and Allegheny county. There were several present last night from Frostburg and other towns in the county. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Housing Officials Term 'Deplorable' Landlord's Views

Criticize Property Owners for Failure To Rent Facilities

Office of Price Administration and local housing representatives yesterday denounced as "deplorable" the attitude of a certain group of landlords of the Cumberland area who have housing facilities to rent but refuse to let them because they "want a few more dollars a month."

OPA rent control representatives came here yesterday at the request of James W. Wilt, head of the local housing office in city hall, who told Leo H. McCormick, state OPA director, last week that price ceilings on rents here are unfair in some instances and that owners refuse to rent rooms and small apartments because they must do so at a loss.

Yesterday, however, Wilt and James F. Morrow, veterans relations adviser for this OPA district, were in complete agreement that the attitude of some landlords is "deplorable" in that they refuse to rent existing facilities because of alleged inequities in rental ceilings although there is a severe housing shortage.

Lack of Feeling

Morrow and Wilt said they "want to condemn the lack of public spiritedness of landlords, their lack of awareness of the situation and their lack of feeling toward veterans." Morrow added that he does "not think much" of landlords' attitudes in holding off available rental properties "for a few dollars more a month."

Wilt stated that he is positive landlords were not aware of the severity of the housing situation until the housing office was opened in city hall. He added that he knows of at least twenty-five housing accommodations being withheld from occupancy because the owners cannot get the desired rentals. He said they claim there are inequities in rental ceilings.

At the present time, Wilt said, there are some 300 veterans' applications on file at the housing office for living accommodations. He added that 100 persons have been provided with accommodations since the office opened.

Walter R. Heath, district rent executive of the OPA, and E. D. Condon, area rent control director, also were in Cumberland yesterday and met with Wilt and Caleb J. White, rent inspector for the Cumberland rent control office.

Many Not Registered

Heath said he was "surprised to know" so many living facilities in the area have not been registered. There is no question, he said, but what rent control will be continued for sometime.

A survey to locate unregistered units probably will be conducted soon, according to Heath, who advised unregistered landlords to register at once by calling at the rent control office in the Union street building.

Heath pointed out that the rent control office does give consideration. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Both AFL and CIO Hope for Victory In NLRB Election

Both Local 331, Utility Workers Union of America, CIO, and Local 1140, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL, last evening were confident of victory in the National Labor Relations Board election to be held here tomorrow to determine the bargaining agency of employees of the Potomac Edison company's river plant, Celanese sub-station and steam heating plant here.

About sixty workers are eligible to cast votes for the AFL, CIO or no union representation. Balloting will take place from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. in the river plant.

Is Confident
Phil Ferrera, IBEW international representative, declared last evening that under the laws, any new bargaining agent "can negotiate only as to the date of its certification" and said the utility workers stand to lose wages and working conditions.

"When the IBEW is certified it can and will negotiate and demand benefits and wages retroactive to the recently expired agreement," the AFL official said.

"We have every confidence of winning Wednesday," Ferrera said, and added he and the local committee would "start negotiations for substantial wage increases and other benefits retroactive to July 1, 1945, the expired date of the present contract."

Predicts Success
James R. Dean, speaking for the CIO utility workers, said the men feel they will be in a better bargaining position if they join the CIO which represents a majority of the utility workers of the American Waterworks and Electric system.

He added that his unit, on August, 1945, had on file cards signed by fifty-five of the workers of the groups and refused AFL contract assertions, saying the contract for the workers was terminated by the CIO local on August 10, 1945.

Temperature Here Hits 78 Degrees

There was a mighty shedding of overcoats yesterday in downtown Cumberland as the city experienced what many old-timers said must have been one of the "warmest" March 4th on record.

At 4 p. m. yesterday, the reading in downtown Cumberland was 78 degrees. At the same time, the temperature at the Green Ridge Forest camp was 84 degrees a member of the district forester's office reported.

Temperature at noon yesterday was 68 degrees, after which the thermometer started a steady climb until it reached the 78 degree point at 4 o'clock.

Red Cross Needs Must All Be Met, Judge Sloan Says

Campaign for $30,500 Started at Annual Kick-off Dinner Here

Veteran campaigners for the American Red Cross who sparked the big war year drives were out in force again last night for the annual kick-off dinner inaugurating the 1946 campaign to raise $30,500 to help the "Greatest Mother of Them All" to carry on.

However, it was obvious at last night's dinner at the Central YMCA that this year the veteran workers are looking to the thousands of returned servicemen to give the first pennant drive since 42 new impetus, enthusiasm and leadership. During the war years, leaders revealed last night, these servicemen wrote home moving stories of the Red Cross in action. Now that they are home, Red Cross leaders feel that these returned men are singularly well-equipped to tell the organization's story and to help boost interest in the Red Cross which is still "in action" in the occupation zones, in the veterans' hospitals and on the home front.

Milliholland Heads Campaign

In view of these facts, Red Cross leaders are convinced that Lt. Col. Randolph Milliholland is a happy choice to lead this year's drive. Wily and energetic, Col. Milliholland pulled himself up by his bootstraps in the national guard from a private and by the time he had reached England was commanding a battalion of tough, rugged, Rangers on commando raids and later fought his battalion of the One Hundred and Fifteenth Infantry through some of the bitterest action in Europe.

It was somewhat appropriate last night that both Milliholland and last year's chairman were both former soldiers. Chief Judge William A. Huster, who led last year's campaign in a drive that netted over $100,000 is a former major in the army. In introducing Lt. Col. Milliholland, Chief Judge Huster remarked that last year the workers were commanded by an "ordinary major" but this year is going to be different and the mission should be accomplished in a short time.

It was at this point that Lt. Col. Milliholland arose and perhaps was speaking for all returned servicemen when he said, "I think you all know how I feel about the Red Cross. It gives me a great deal of pleasure that I can do anything to further the cause of the Red Cross and I take great pleasure in having been appointed this year's chairman."

It remained for D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Maryland court of appeals and the principal speaker of the evening, to warn the workers that now that the "heat is off" to some extent that people with the best intentions may have a tendency to "let down."

Must Meet Needs

Speaking bluntly, former Judge Sloan said "The Red Cross is made to meet every need that may arise and these needs must be met. The Red Cross must be served. Why do you realize that he's received more publicity than anybody else who ever came out of this town?"

Former Judge Sloan reminded the workers that this year's chairman was a fitting exponent of all returned servicemen's service. The Red Cross helped these boys to get back and there's not one of them who doesn't pay tribute to the great job this organization has done.

The speaker then told the workers that while this year's drive might appear somewhat different than the war drives on the surface, the difference is only one of size and that the needs and necessities of the organization are just as great as they ever were with the reasons for supporting the drive just as valid and sound as they were in time of war.

Former Judge Sloan then stated that there is a possibility that this may be the last Red Cross drive as such and after praising the staggering loads that were carried under the leadership of Judge Huster and Joseph M. Naughton, the speaker, in referring to this year's drive, declared "This town always has measured up to the occasion and it will on this occasion."

Key Leaders Introduced

In expressing his pleasure at heading this year's campaign, Lt. Col. Milliholland said that he and the public will take cognizance of the fact that "the real workers in a drive of this sort are those who get out and actually do the work."

The chairman then proceeded to introduce some of the key leaders, department heads and committee members present at the dinner. These included: Mrs. Charles I. Kopp, chapter chairman; Henry C. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

A total of 17,749 voters are qualified to cast ballots in the biennial primary municipal election today, according to the latest official figures released by Samuel E. Grimmer, city clerk.
